Survey shows street repairs to cost thousands

Gravel roads will require $7,000; improved roads nearly as much

Roads! Roads! A statewide headache at present, and a real local headache as far as the Arlington Heights village board is concerned.

"This is the year more money has to come from somewhere," said Alderman Harry Robinson, chairman of streets, at Monday night's regular meeting.

Robinson and R. J. Becker, supt. of streets, recently made a survey of all gravel streets in the village and it wasn't too surprising to learn that an estimated $7,000 would be needed to bring these streets up to date. A harder blow, though, is the fact that only $3,000 a year is appropriated for the repairs of not only the gravel roads in the village, but also all the paved streets.

ACCORDING TO the survey, some of the streets will need two inches of stone to make them travelable, while others will need four inches. A power grader will also have to be rented to properly grade the roads before stone can be laid.

State aid will be sought for some of the streets, such as Olive ave., between Arlington Heights rd. and Rand rd. Action on this may take several months. Dwyer ave., which is already on state aid, needs a liquid seal coat and chips. A resolution for the improvement must be made and approved by the state before an advertisement for bids can be made. Euclid ave. also is in dire need of a seal coat and chips as are many of the streets in the business district. The latter will be given temporary relief this week, when some of the worst holes will be filled in.

North Mitchel ave., beyond Oakton, which is on the arterial streets system, has never been improved. It is in bad shape and the village has agreed to fill in the worst holes and drain off the water to give home owners in that area some relief.

CLARENDON and Patton aves., Sherwood, have had a serious drainage problem ever since the streets were resurfaced. The village dads made a motion to build a catch basin and install a sewer at that point, as it was felt it was not the property owner's fault if the road level was put in above the natural ground level. Robinson was instructed to get an estimate on same. A similar problem exists on Douglas ave., north of Euclid ave.,and an estimate will be obtained for that at the same time.

Village Clerk Forrest F. Davis was instructed to refund to the State Highway Department the amount advanced from State Gas Tax funds in payment of engineering services and plans drawn up several years ago for the improvement of Douglas ave., between Miner and Northwest hwy., which the village has not seen fit to carry through. This refund was necessary before the village could qualify for any further state aid.

Change fiscal year for Wheeling Township office

The annual town meeting for Wheeling Township was held Tuesday at the Arlington Hts. village hall, with Forrest F. Davis acting as moderator.

Martin C. Meyer and the members of the Tax Committee of Wheeling Township, who have been studying conditions here, prepared several resolutions which they presented at the meeting.

CITIZENS AGREED to change the present fiscal year, so that it would end February 28, 1951, and each succeeding year thereafter will begin March 1 and end the last day of February until changed by further action. This change will give the Township office sufficient time to prepare its yearly report before the annual town meeting, which falls on the first Tuesday in April each year.

Several citizens voiced their opinion that the appropriation for the office of Thistle Commissioner in the amount of $300 be omitted from the budget for the fiscal year 1950-1951. A resolution to the effect was made by the Tax committee.

It was felt that in spite of a Thistle Commissioner this annoying weed survived and continues to thrive all over the township. Part of the blame was placed on the laxity of the county and state to cooperate with the township commissioner, as it does no good to cut the weed down on the township side of the street and let the county or state side of the street keep on growing.

Hugo J. Thal, attorney, felt that one solution to the problem would be to bring more pressure on the county and state to see that they cooperate with the township. The opinions voiced herein will be told to the Township board, which has the power to act on the subject.

Louis Clark, present Thistle Commissioner, still has another year of his two year term, and will continue his services.

IT WAS AGREED to omit the item of $75 appropriated for the purchase of Statute books from the budget for the fiscal year of 1950-51.

The balance in the poor relief fund is approximately $23,500. Other sources of income during the year are expected to boost this figure to $24,500. This total of $24,500 will be available for financing the current year's expenses. The budget for the year anticipates expenses amounting to $5,800. Due to the large balance that has accumulated in the relief fund, it will not be necessary to make any levy for relief purposes in the township this year.

The balance in the town fund is approximately $15,000. Additional income in the amount of $9,500 is expected to be available during the year. Half of this amount will come from the road and bridge fund which had been loaned that amount. This additional income will make a total of $24,500 that will be available for financing the expenses of the coming year. The budget for the town fund is $8,000. Again, due to the large balance that has accumulated in the town fund it will not be necessary to make any levy for purposes of the general town fund.

Township tax reform sought by farmers

Farmers' interest in township taxes was reflected in all township meetings held Tuesday in the various townships of this area.

Tax committees, comprising members of Cook County Farm Bureau in bulletins sent to members issued recommendations of tax reform.

Attendances at the various meetings were increased by the action, but it was evident that the majority of the farmer tax payers depended upon their own tax committee to fight the "battle for them."

Wheeling township had an attendance of only 20.

Palatine had an attendance of forty and the meeting lasted three hours, requiring an adjournment for official adoption of the budget.

ELK GROVE meeting was attended by 22 persons (including the woman reporter for the Herald). Each item on the budget was scrutinized, inquiries being made as to what benefit the township received.

Elk Grove is one township which has established a record for economy and it will continue. Supervisor Wille said that he is willing to still accept $380 a year for his job; Clarence Scharringhausen, town clerk said that his present salary of $400 was ample and Fred Bradley, road commissioner said that his services would still be available at $6.00 a day, although the law allows $8.00.

The justices of the peace will still receive $5.00 for every meeting of the town board of auditors that they attend. There are four meetings a year, but the five bucks usually only draw two of the judges.

The budget item for thistle commissioner's salary was discussed for some time. It was finally allowed to remain with the understanding that the commissioner earn his salary. If the law did not require a thistle commissioner the electors attending the Tuesday meeting would have abolished the job.

The fiscal year was changed to end Feb. 28, which was a recommendation of the farmers. The change would allow the officers time to prepare and publish their reports before the annual town meetings.

Average rates are over $3.00; expect $400 taxes on new homes

Persons who are anxious to learn the amount of their coming tax bills prior to receipt of actual bills can take a pencil and paper and with the assessed valuation on last year's tax bill can start multiplying. Using the figures in the tables that appear on this page will give the approximate tax. The equalization figure this year is $1.40 in place of 1.43 of last year so the tax that you will be required to pay will be a little less than the answer you get from use of the tax rate that appears in this issue.

If you live in one of the villages you can get a quick answer by using the total rate as follows:

City of Park Ridge	3.370
City of Des Plaines	3.314
Arlington Heights	3.252
Mount Prospect	3.136
Village of Glenview	3.128
Village of Wheeling	2.448
Village of Palatine	3.048

If you reside outside of one of the above incorporated villages you must do some addition. You can add together the rates for all of the taxing bodies in which you reside, such as school district, fire protection district, etc., and then multiply the combined rate with assessed valuation.

Increases in the overall rates for the villages are:

Arlington Heights	.322
Mount Prospect	.580
Village of Wheeling	.142
Village of Palatine	.332

Taxpayers in Arlington Heights high school district will be interested in a comparison of high school rates thruout the county. The average rate is $3.121. Arlington's rate is 3.252, which is a low rate when one considers the new additions for all three schools.

Schaumburg, as usual, has the lowest tax rate of all townships. This year there are no taxes for township, relief or road and bridge. The only local tax is for school purposes, rate of .912 for Unit School District No. 250 which cares for the elementary and high school requirements of the township. There is a non-high school bond tax of .038. The total tax rate for the township is $1.406, comprising: county and forest preserve, Palatine Fire Protection District, T-B Sanitarium and the taxes above mentioned.

HAOVER township is in practically the same tax class as Schaumburg. Residents of the village of Bartlett escape with a tax rate of $1.916. Last year's rate was $2.134. The township has no fire protection district, but local taxes are township .024, relief .070, road and bridge .044, village .372, schools .912.

Tax rates for school districts outside of the unit school district are:

District 42	.320
District 43	.448
District 46	1.222
District 48	.300

Village engineer to draw plans, estimates for Forest avenue

Monday night's village board meeting in Arlington Heights brought up still another angle on streets when they dealt with the proposed improvement of Forest ave.

The most probable way that the improvement could be made would be through the sale of special assessment bonds, and it is rather dubious as to whether a buyer for such bonds could be found.

However the board is willing to have the village engineer prepare the necessary data and then hold an informal public hearing only for those concerned with the improvement to see how bonds could be disposed. The engineer will be instructed to draw up an estimate and preliminary plans.

CLASS D LIQUOR licenses, which allowed the sale of beer not for consumption on the premises, were repealed with the approval of the second reading of the new liquor ordinance, which omitted same.

The trustees agreed that all disposal services operating in Arlington Heights be notified to tell their customers not to place garbage cans and ashes on curbs for pickups.

A recent inspection of homes under construction showed that builders are still connecting downspouts to the sewers. R. J. Becker, Supt. of streets, was authorized to appoint a man to inspect same, and all violators will be prosecuted. The new building code prohibits the connection of downspouts to sewers.

Water bills this month will contain a questionaire to be filled out by all homeowners having trouble with their sewers. This data will be valuable to the village as it will ascertain where sewer troubles exist.

The board granted the Chamber of Commerce permission to hold a flourescent street lighting demonstration in the village Friday night.

CC to display latest in street lighting Friday

Permission has been granted the Chamber of Commerce to invite W. H. Long Co. of Chicago to demonstrate their new ultra-modern "Post-Lites" in the Business section of Arlington Heights this Friday night, April 7.

This Company will set up ten lighting units in the heart of town and will have on hand a lighting engineer who will answer all your questions on street lighting. These ten lights will light up, in grand style, at least a full block, maybe more, thus giving you an excellent opportunity to judge what they might be like in all the business section.

The street lighting committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Walter Krause, chairman, is not recommending this type of lighting at this time. The purpose in bringing them here is to demonstrate to all what adequate street lighting can do for the town and its businesses, and at the same time, give us a chance to decide whether this particular type of lighting would be desirable.

Adequate lighting is not only of benefit to the merchant. It eliminates the drudgery of shopping on dark and dismal looking streets. Bright lights create a carnival spirit and radiates pleasure to all surrounded by it. It makes for greater police efficiency in recognizing faces. It discourages vandalism and eliminates most traffic accidents. Safety is the big advantage. One serious accident prevented would be worth more than the entire investment of a better lighting system.

Come out, then, Friday night and see this display. The public is asked to check it from all angles, discuss it, ask questions, and then voice their reaction—good or bad. Address all comments to the Chamber of Commerce, 201 N. Dunton. Voicing your opinion will be a community service.

Save papers, magazines for Boy Scout pickup

Residents of Arlington Heights are asked to save all their old newspapers and magazines for the Boy Scout paper drive, which will be held about May 6.

Boy Scouts and Cubs of Pack 232, Boy Scouts of America, ask that the papers and magazines be tied in separate bundles. The definite date of the pickup will be announced later.

'Yes' or 'No' goes to contractor Friday A.M.

Residents of Stonegate as well as Ollie Besinger are awaiting the answer of Arlington Heights village board to the application for building permit in that subdivision. The board assured the attorney of Besinger that the answer would be forth coming Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock.

It is understood that the issue will be discussed by members of the village board at a closed meeting this Thursday evening. If necessary, following the discussion, the board will meet in open session to pass the required motions or resolutions.

All members of the board received letters this week from Attorney Atwood setting forth the position of his associates and pointing out the loss they would suffer in property values, the traffic danger to residents, the over-load that would be placed on schools and present municipal facilities, if the permits are granted.

Latest plans of Mr. Besinger comply with the code and the office of the building commissioner can find nothing upon which a denial can be based unless the board recognizes the claim that they would be a detriment to the community.

It is no secret that Mr. Besinger does not intend to drop his building plans if his permits are denied, but will appeal to the courts.

Permits were issued during the month of March for 36 homes totaling $476,700. The permit for the addition to the high school costing $750,000, was also issued.

Marvin Rodewald has taken out a permit for a newspaper agency building to cost $7900 to be erected on North Evergreen.

Barber Shop chorus here April 11

St. James Holy Name society of Arlington Heights will be host to the Lombard chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet singing in America, Inc., next Tues. evening at St. James hall. The Lombard chorus, composed of 35 voices, has given programs throughout the state. The members of the Holly Name society invites all the men of St. James parish and their friends and neighbors to attend this performance.

There will be a short business meeting at 8:15 p.m., followed by the singing of the chorus. During the intermission all of those present will witness the second running of the Arlington Gallop, which is becoming very popular. After the second group of songs refreshments will be served.

The doors will be open at 7:45

Deer killed by car after it leaps preserve fence

William H. Woods, 23, a resident of Evanston Y. M. C. A. at 1000 Grove st., struck and killed a deer with his automobile in Northwest hwy. a quarter of a mile north of Dundee rd. Monday. Russell Carter of Barrington, state game warden, said the deer was one of several kept in an adjacent forest preserve, and that it must have jumped the fence and onto the road.

Arlington Fender and Body Shop estimate $250 damage to the car.

Palatine voters approve $855,000 for H.S. addition

Palatine high school district had a spirited election Saturday when over 1200 voters turned out to vote on the $845,000 addition to the high school.

The proposition carried over two to one. When the size of the vote became apparent about three o'clock, an SOS call went out and telephone appeals brought such crowds that there was a waiting line when the polls closed.

The vote was as follows:

Proposition to build addition—In favor 896; opposed 343.

Favoring $845,000 bonds 861, opposed 368.

Favoring $10,00 bonds to purchase land 859; opposed 351.

The architects have now received authority to complete their plans and specifications, which will take about a month. In the meantime negotiations for the sale of the bonds will be started. It will be open bidding as no deal was made with any bond house prior to the election.

Easter egg hunt this Saturday

This Saturday afternoon the race will be on to see who can find the most eggs in the annual Easter Egg Hunt for children sponsored each year by the Arlington Heights Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary.

Nearly 1000 youngsters are expected to turn out for the event. They are to meet at the village hall at 1 p.m., and from there they will be led to the secret hunting grounds at 2 p.m. Children from two to five will have a special area to hunt in, and may be assisted by their parents.

All children of elementary school age will hunt in another area, but parents or older persons will not be allowed to assist them. Value of eggs will be stamped on same, and all eggs not stamped, regardless of color, will be valued at 10 cents. The golden egg for the elementary school children will be worth $5, while the golden egg for the little tots will be valued at $2.50.

AS AN EGG is found it must be cashed in, as only one egg at a time will be redeemed. Sacks should be brought along to put the eggs in, but the children are requested to leave their dogs at home. Last year several dogs (egg lovers) ate up the profits of several youngsters. All eggs found may be kept, but it is recommended that they not be eaten as they will have been exposed to the elements for several hours.

Arlington Radio and Record shop will furnish the sound system and music for the event. If there are any awards donated by individuals, the finders of certain colored eggs, or perhaps the most eggs, will be awarded these.

School board elections Saturday; polling places

Listed below are the five polling places for the school board election of the Arlington Hts. township high school district 214, which will be held this Saturday from 12 noon to 7 p.m.

Precinct 1, public school, Wheeling.

Precinct 2, village hall, Arlington Heights.

Precinct 3, public school, district 23, Prospect Heights.

Precinct 4, public school, Mt. Prospect.

Precinct 5, public school, Elk Grove.

Voters may also cast their ballots for the local elementary schools at the same polling places.

Examination ratings determined appointments as census enumerators

Frank W. Kilban, district supervisor of the Census Bureau covering the 13th congressional district has advised Paddock Publications as to the method followed in the selection of enumerators for Wheeling township. He says:

"Wheeling's quota was ten enumerators. There were 36 applicants who took the test, most of whom passed with good rating."

"Following instructions from Washington, we had to choose the ten with the highest rating, which was done. There is no reflection of ability on those who were not called. The census rules do not allow appointments because of politics."

"I am sorry we could not find work for all the applicants."

Square dance to honor Lions Club queen

The Arlington Heights Lions club is sponsoring a Coronation dance Friday evening, April 21, at the South side public school. The dance will climax the queen contest which ends Tuesday, April 18, at 12 o'clock noon. The Arlington Heights Lions' queen will be crowned at the dance.

Music will be by Les Griffith's Harvesters for square dancing. Admission is $1.

Nancy Baumann, a senior at Arlington Heights high school, is leading the queen contest. To date Nancy has 1383 votes.

Running a close second is Carol Orth, with 1274 votes. Carol is a junior at Arlington high.

The six other contestants and their standings are as follows:

Marilyn Franke, junior, 1152; Gayle Rascher, sophomore, 963; Jane Schimming, (graduate) 920; Mary Lou Sander, senior, 706; Margaret Bryson, senior, 678; and Pat Boettcher, senior, 660.

Votes represent pennies deposited in each candidate's container, which are placed in various spots throughout the village. Proceeds from this event will be used to conduct the Lions club's community service work in Arlington Heights. Picture of contestants appear elsewhere in this issue.

Wednesday evening meetings are held at 8:00 o'clock and include testimonies of healing.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 9, will be:

"ARE SIN, DISEASE, AND DEATH REAL?"

The Golden Text is:

"In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death" (Prov. 12: 28).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon, the following are from the Bible:

"And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion, beseeching him, And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. . . . And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour" (Matt. 8: 5, 6, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"If God causes man to be sick, sickness must be good, and its opposite, health, must be evil, for all that He makes is good and will stand forever. . . . If sickness is real, it belongs to immortality; if true, it is a part of Truth. . . . But if sickness and sin are illusions, the awakening from this mortal dream, or illusion, will bring us into health, holiness and immortality. . . . Christ, as the spiritual or true idea of God, comes now as of old, preaching the gospel to the poor, healing the sick, and casting out evils" (pp. 229, 230, 347).

The library corner

Family chronicles of "way back when" have been a popular subject for many books. "Cheaper By The Dozen" and "Especially Father," portrayed with humor the man of the house. Two new ones now available at the Arlington Heights Public Library tell the story of boyhood in tne early 1900's.

"That Darned Minister's Son," by Haydn S. Pearson is a loving recollection of innocent boyhood deviltry in the days of parlor stoves and spelling bees. Haydn Pearson's father was a minister of a small-town parish in New Hampshire. Rather than live the frugal life that so many ministers led, he also became a successful farmer and some of the anecdotes tell of father's disarming way of blending religion and farming.

"Knee Pants" by Emile C. Schurmacher tells how a city kid, at the dawn of the twentieth century, could have just as much as a country boy. Dr. Schurmacher was New York's outstanding veterinary surgeon, and even his household was regulated by emergency horse ailments. When the Schurmachers bought their first touring car, the neighbors were both envious and resentful, and told Papa bluntly: "A horse doctor should stick to his horses." Growing up, for Emile, was a continuous adventure, and in recalling it today, he has lost none of the enthusiasm and excitement he first experienced as a boy in knee pants.

'Anybody here seen Lad?' asks neighbor

"Did 'Lad' head home for Wauconda?" asks Mrs. W. E. Christensen of 507 Fairview, Mt. Prospect. Lad is a thoroughbred collie dog belonging to her brother's family of Wauconda, and he was staying with the Christensens while the brother is in Washington.

Each week end the brother's two boys came down to the Christensens' and the feeling is that Lad got lonesome and set out to find them. He has been gone now for two and a half weeks, and any hints as to his whereabouts will be greatly appreciated. Mrs. Christensen can be reached at Mt. Prospect 2554-R.

Lad is a typical collie, five years old, and is wearing no collar or license.

Wally DeBuhr cooks up Boy scout leaders' tng. course

by ARNOLD HATCH

Wally DeBuhr, council training chairman, says he's got real spring fever and from his personal observations, that's what ails a lot of the Scout leaders of NW suburban council right now. He has cooked up a triple dose of hiking, cooking and camping, which will be ladled out in generous portions at the three exciting sessions. This course is a guaranteed panacea of all forms of spring fever and absolutely painless.

All Scout leaders and Scouters of NWS council who want to either review their outdoor camping or make a fresh start, are invited to attend these information packed sessions. Bring along that Scout knowledge hunger and have it satisfied by a double barreled portion, dished out by outstanding servants of Scouting.

The first session will be held at the public school in Mt. Prospect April 18 at 7:45 p.m.

Proper Scout clothing, Hike equipment, and uses will be discussed by Jim Sanger.

Patrol hiking and troop hiking will be thoroughly presented and discussed by Russell Smith.

The second session will be held at the public school in Mt. Prospect May 4 at 7:45 p.m.

A demonstration of tents, sleeping and cooking gear, and an overnight hike will be planned by Barney Cooke.

Patrol and troop camping, an excellent 16 mm. film will be shown, and various phases discussed by Bart Meays.

Announcements and preliminaries will be taken care of by Marty Freeman at these sesseions.

The third session will be an over night camping experience at Camp Dan Beard, Wheeling, May 6 and 7, starting with registration at 8:45 Saturday morning.

On the up river hike, Harold Love will propound the intricacies of the Scout Compass.

The outdoor noon meal will be supervised at the hike destination by Eric Church, T. R. Smith, and Louis Gapenski, and on the return, camp will be set up for the night.

William Ziebell will explain all of the gadgets in his First Aid Can and discuss approved methods of First Aid.

For supper Norbert Harz will have a few choice recipes up his sleeve to surprise you with.

Wally DeBuhr and Frank Griffin will entertain with an interesting program at the Camp fire.

If stars are out, Wally Sundblad will describe the best routes to Mars or the moon.

Sunday morning services will be under the direction of Russell Smith.

Noel Wysong will unload some of his choice woodlore and describe the latest in outdoor etiquette for Scouters.

At high noon awarding of certificates and dismissal.

Bedridden patients invited to use ceiling projector

To date no one has availed themselves of the ceiling projector and book films which make it possible for an invalid to read in bed. This equipment has been given as a gift to the village by the Arlington Heights Lions club.

It is kept at the public library and may be used, free of charge, by any bedridden person who is unable to read a regular book. The book films consist of historical as well as fictitious novels. Citizens are invited to take advantage of this unique equipment, which will happily pass away many hours which might otherwise drag along.

Mariana Natives

Natives of the Marianas islands received their present name because of Ferdinand Magellan's abhorrence of a haircut. When he discovered the Pacific island chain in 1521, the explorer was so disgusted by the sight of short-haired natives that he called them "Chamorro," the Portuguese and Spanish word meaning people "with cropped hair."

Faith church to have special services

Esther Wenghofen will sing Demarest's "Hymn of the Last Supper."

On Good Friday there will be a solemn service to which neighbors and friends are invited. Faith choir will sing the anthem, "Christ, the Life of all the Living," by Pfatteicher.

On Easter Day the Feast of the Lord's Resurrection will be celebrated in three special services. Many flowers and other features will express the joy for the Lord's victory.

The Sunrise service, which begins at 6:30 a. m., will usher in the festivities, and the congregation will sing favorite Easter carols and anthems of worship and praise.

After this early service an Easter breakfast will be served by the Ladies society in the parish hall.

Faith church extends the Easter greeting to the community

One and one make 11, bunnies, that is!

Four little Belgium hares, who have been living in the display window at Warson's Beauty Shop, Arlington Heights, have created a tremendous amount of excitement for the young fry in the village for the past three weeks.

Warson's have had so many requests from people who wanted to buy them that they could have sold a hundred. They were sold the first day they appeared in the window.

One little boy was quite insistant that he be allowed to buy all four of them, even though the Warsons said they were already sold. He came back the next day and told them his mother said he couldn't have all four but he could have two, still oblivious to the fact that they were not for sale.

"Do you know which are boys and which are girls?" he asked Mrs. Warson.

"Well no, but I could find out," she replied.

"You see, I want a boy and girl rabbit," continued the little fellow. "One time I had a boy and girl rabbit, and in no time at all I had 11."

The rabbits were raised by Mr. Raines, father of Raymond Raines who works at Warsons.

With all the requests for the bunnies coming in and no more bunnies to sell, the Warsons managed to find a home for five kittens, which seemed to be in demand as much as the bunnies for Easter gifts.

Russell and Joseph G. Sebastian, active broker members. An associate member, Edward John McCabe, has also been accepted. (B4

Birthday parties

Baby Joan Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson, celebrated her first birthday March 26. A dinner honoring this special occasion was given at which Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Thompson, paternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Thompson and son Georgie, uncle, aunt and cousin; Miss Ruth Thompson, aunt and Miss Virginia Artingstall, friend of the family, were present. Later in the afternoon relatives of Mrs. Thompson came out from Chicago, including Mr. and Mrs. Harry Troy and son Michael; Miss Esther Hegsted and Mrs. Fred Wildner.

On Sunday afternoon, Patti Anne Ritter, daughter of the C. Elbert Ritters was given a party marking her fifth birthday. There were 14 little friends in the neighborhood who helped her have "her day."

Susan Yelton, daughter of the Richard Yeltons, was three years old March 30, and celebrated by having a party that afternoon. Mr. Yelton took movies of the children in various poses. The little children invited to help Susie blow out the three candles on her cake were Richard "Skipper" Winkler, Donna Balfour, Joe and Cyndy Morici and Blair Messenger. Little sister Linda was very much present and joined in the fun, though she is just a year old. The mothers of the children were invited also. Mrs. Charles McDowell, maternal grandmother from Lansing, Mich., was an assistant hostess.

Trips

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Willging and three daughters, leave today for Dubuque, Iowa, where they will visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Willging and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rastatter, over the Easter holiday. After Easter Mr. Willging will drive back home, leaving his family for a two-week visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Paddock and family left the first of this week on a combined business and pleasure trip to Tulsa, Okla., where they will visit Mrs. J. M. McNally, mother of Mrs. Paddock for ten days or two weeks.

R. M. Skallerup leaves this week end on a business trip to Philadelphia.

On Friday of this week Mrs. Arthur Komarek will be on her way to Verona, N. J., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Manchester, for two weeks.

The Kenneth Strickler family are spending this week and staying over Easter with Mrs. J. F. Strickler, mother of Mr. Strickler, of Cleveland.

Lt. Robert and Leroy Jacobs of the Navy ferried a plane for the Navy to Florida and are due back at any time.

'We thank you'

Say Mrs. John Lindstrom and Mrs. Joseph Miller to those who came and helped make their bridge party, proceeds of which were turned over to the Women's club for the benefit of the Cancer drive, such a success. Mrs. Marion Janis won the first prize.

Attend confirmation

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Liessman were present at the confirmation of Mr. Liessman's niece, Joan Craginbush, 14, in Markham, Ill., Sunday. Afterwards a dinner was given honoring Joan, at which 18 of her relatives joined in.

Illness

Kristin Loll, 7½ year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Loll, Jr., is a victim of measles.

Six-year-old Susan Balducci is recuperating well from her long sieg of the "flu." She was made particularly happy during her illness by the many cards she received from her friends. Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Balducci.

Back from the South

E. E. Silk returned from his three month stay in Phoenix, Ariz., last Monday. He is glad to be back home after his long absence.

San Antonio, Texas, was the city in which Mrs. David Zipprodt spent her time from January 21, until last Saturday. She was truly "April-fooled" by the weather here, and it is a come down from the warm, sunshiny days of San Antone. The remarks and praises Mrs. Zipprodt made on San Antonio were extremely interesting and enlightening. Mr. Zipprodt spent the last two weeks of her stay with her and they drove home together.

Hosts and hostesses

Theatre director has broad experience

Staahl photo

A. DOUGLAS ANDERSON

A Douglas Anderson, currently the director of the Village Theatre, Inc., of Arlington Hts., first became actively interested in the drama while attending Crystal Lake high school. One of the first plays in which he participated won fourth place in a state-wide contest. His outstanding ability in dramatics continued through all of the succeeding high school plays and won him a scholarship to the Northwestern university summer theatre. He majored in drama at Cornell College in Iowa. Here he achieved more awards in state wide dramatic contests. He produced and directed a radio show for the servicemen while he was a lieutenant in the Air Corps. This was broadcast over an Iowa station.

Prior to his coming to Arlington Heights Mr. Anderson directed dramatics at Mt. Vernon, Ia., high school and while there took a play to a contest and again won a state award.

Since he has been in Arlington, he has been very active in the organizational work of the Village Theatre. He directed the first play to be presented by this group, the successful mystery, "Night Must Fall." At present he is pacing a new cast and crew through the second show, this time a comedy, Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," to be given on May 12 and 13 at the South school auditorium.

NEW NEIGHBORS .... IN THE CITY OF GOOD NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. W. Schumann
644 S. Highland

"We always wanted to move to Arlington Heights," stated Mrs. W. Schumann, when the reporter stopped for a short visit in the cozy, Cape Cod home at 644 S. Highland.

The Schumanns, formerly of Portage Park, Chicago, moved in their new home December 1. "We like living in a small town very much," continued young Mrs. Schumann. "People are so friendly and it is just perfect for the children."

Their are two boys in this family of new neighbors. Billy, 7½, is in 2nd grade at the South school. Jimmy, 17 months, is currently in the process of cutting teeth.

Television is the main afternoon event for Billy and his boyfriends. "The boys have free reign of the house after school," smiled Mrs. Schumann. "It is wonderful to have lots of room for the children and their friends."

Mr. Schumann, assistant treasurer of Crane Packing company, is a sport hobbyist. He enjoys bowling, golfing and fishing. Mrs. Schumann spends her spare time knitting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brinke
307 N. Lincoln Lane

November 19, 1949 was moving day for Mr. and Mrs. George Brinke, Jo Ann and Georgie.

This new Arlington Heights family moved from northwest Chicago to their spacious six-room ranch style home in the picturesque Eastwood subdivision.

"We've known the Peterson family for some time," said Mrs. Brinke. "That is how we happened to move to Arlington Heights and buy this home which was built by Mr. Peterson."

"The children like it out here," continued this attractive young mother. "When we drive to Chicago they ask to go back home." Eight year old Jo Ann is in the third grade at North school and is an active Brownie member. Her brother Georgie is five years old and a busy member of the kindergarten held at the Methodist church.

Mr. Brinke is a supervisor for Standard Oil and Company.

Elected to President's club of company

Victor H. Beisler, 510 N. State road, Arlington Heights, has been elected to the President's club of the Great-West Life Assurance company for 1950. This honor is reserved for those men of the company achieving outstanding records in sales and maintaining high standards in the conduct of their business.

This club, originally formed to recognize outstanding attainment on the part of employees of the company, has become through the years a mark of leadership and success.

'A Bit of Americana' at DAR meeting

Mrs. C. H. Mills will speak on "A Bit of Americana" to the members of the Eli Skinner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution who will meet in her home at 205 Drury Lane, Arlington Heights tonight, Thursday, at 8 p. m. Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Harold Lommen, Mrs. Arthur Mally and Mrs. E. H. Savage.

Mrs. Mills will weave in her hobby of creating dolls with the story of her pioneer ancestors. She has created more than 100 dolls which are unique in that they are all character dolls—dolls which have been inspired either by someone Mrs. Mills has known or by characters in fiction. Mrs. Mills first began her hobby of creating dolls by constructing them from crepe paper and cotton, and has since made them from almost any material at hand. Her latest work has been with clay miniatures which represent figures taken from an old-fashioned album.

Mrs. Don Stockdale, Mrs. Kenneth Gregory and Mrs. Frank Fender attended the 54th state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Springfield. Mrs. Edwin Lommers, a candidate for president general was one of the speakers. One of the highlights of the conference was the tea given by Gov. Stevenson in the executive mansion for the DAR delegates and Children of the American Revolution, whose annual meeting was held concurrently.

Another important event of the conference was the drawing of the name of the Good Citizen of the year. Annually the DAR invites senior high school classes to choose their outstanding girl member on the basis of dependability, service, leadership, patriotism and scholarship. At the state conference the regent drew the name of a senior girl from Naperville and she was given a $100 government bond. The girls who received the Eli Skinner Chapter good citizenship award, Patti Boyles from Arlington Heights and Darlene Toppel from Palatine, with their mothers, are to be honor guests at the April 6 meeting of the chapter.

Mrs. Frank Fender, who will take up residence in Wisconsin, was honored at a farewell luncheon March 22, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Mally. Mrs. Don Stockdale, regent, presented Mrs. Fender with a silver dish on behalf of the chapter.

Men Newcomers

The members of the men's group of the Newcomers club will hold their regular meetipg next Monday evening at the American Legion hall, 122 North Douglas, Arlington Heights. There will be card games and refreshments, and all men newcomers to the community are welcome.

Elk Grove Home bureau

The Elk Grove Home Bureau meeting was held March 22 at the home of Mrs. Louis Pohlman. A dessert luncheon was served by Mrs. John Wetterman, Mrs. Embert Wille and Mrs. John Popp. There were 20 members, one associate member and four guests present.

Mrs. Coulter, assistant home adviser, gave the major lesson, "How to Attain Ease and Charm as an Adult." The minor lesson was a household hint exchange.

On April 26 the unit will enjoy a tour to Chinatown, for which reservations must be made by April 12. The members may bring a guest. Mrs. Marvin Busse, rte. 2, DesPlaines, is handling reservations.

Set dates for summer round-up for schools

Arlington Heights committees of the public and parochial schools announced this week the dates for the summer round-ups for pre-school children.

Round-ups will be held as follows: St. James school, May 18; St. Peters school, May 23; North school, May 24; and South school, May 25.

The round-up consists of a complete physical examination in the office of the family doctor and a dental examination in the office of the family dentist, followed by a conference with the school nurse on the day of the round-up.

The pre-school census conducted some time ago has given the schools a list of children eligible for kindergarten next year. In addition, all school children have taken forms home on which their parents might list children whom they know are eligible for kindergarten. These forms should be returned to the child's school by April 13.

Members of the round-up committees of the three local elementary school systems will contact parents of the pre-school children entering school next fall for the first time and will send the family of each child a medical record form to be taken to the family doctor and dentist.

No examination will be conducted in the schools on the day of the round-up. Parents will bring the completed blank to the school on that day, will confer with the school nurse regarding the results of the examination, and will register their child for school. In compliance with the state law providing for a physical examination before entering school, children will not be registered for school until the physical and dental examinations have been concluded.

FAVORITES For FLAVOR

by MARILYN McLENNAN

Most often soup is a tasty introduction to a meal.

"Dried Peach Soup with Hard Dumplings is a meal in itself," said Mrs. August Folkman, contributor of this unusual soup variation.

Mrs. Folkman gave the history of this dish, a long-time family favorite as we chatted in her comfortable country home on Busse road.

"My husband mother makes this soup often. An old German recipe, it was originally called Bach Apfelsuppe (dried apple soup). I have substituted dried peaches, added a little of this and taken away a little of that to get just the flavor I like," she continued.

Flavored with whole cloves, butter and just the right amount of cider vinegar, this spicy soup is topped with tiny egg dumplings. Accompany with a light dessert and coffee—and there you have it, a complete and satisfying meal as well as refreshingly new and interesting dish.

Dried Peach Soup

- 2½ quarts water
- 1½ cups dried peaches cut in small pieces
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 1¼ teaspoon salt

Combine water, peaches and cloves and bring to a boil. Simmer till peaches are tender. Then add butter, vinegar, sugar and salt. Again bring to a boil and add the hard dumpling batter by ¼ teaspoonfuls to make the tiny dumplings.

Hard Dumplings

- 1 egg beaten lightly
- 1 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup flour

Mix together to make a smooth batter. When dumplings are added to soup, simmer for ten minutes.

Yield: Five generous servings

Looking for an Easter treat for your children?

Last year Mrs. Folkman discovered she could make her own Easter baskets with rice krispies. The idea popped into her mind and her grandchildren voted it a delicious success!

Here's how she does it. Make a boiled syrup as you would for pop corn balls and mix with the rice krispies in a buttered bowl. Butter the outside of a bowl (the size of the basket you wish to make), and cover it with the rice krispie mixture.

When "the basket" hardens, remove it from the bowl. Shape a piece of wire to form the handle allowing enough wire to extend down into the sides of the bowl. Cover the wire with remaining rice krispie mixture to form the handle, being careful to firmly fasten handle to basket.

Wrap the finished and filled basket with colored cellophane. It gives a professional swish and keeps this edible basket clean.

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

With many churches, breakfast at the church following sunrise services on Easter Sunday has become a tradition. And in Arlington Heights many times the young people's groups are the sponsors of these affairs.

The high school members of the Senior Tuxis and the seventh and eighth graders who belong to the Junior Tuxis at the Presbyterian church are inviting parishioners to share a meal of bacon and eggs, sweet rolls, juice, toast, coffee and milk. What's more most of it will be prepared and all will be served by the members of the two groups. Even the boys pitch in on the k. p. duty this Sunday. Tuxis will use any proceeds of the free will offering to augment the building fund of the Shinagawa church of Tokyo.

At the Methodist church the young people have charge also. This time it is the members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship who are sponsoring the breakfast following a youth service at 6:30 a. m. This early service will be especially interesting to the young people, and high school people of other churches in the area have been invited to attend.

Tickets for the Walther League breakfast at St. Peter Lutheran school at 65 cents for adults and 35 cents for children. Breakfast will follow the 6:30 a. m. sunrise service at the church, and many who attend this service as well as others who do not—are planning to go to the breakfast.

At Faith English Lutheran church, on the other hand, the breakfast will be served by the members of the Ladies society, who, according to people who've sampled their meals, are noted for their good food.

There'll be a multitude of eggs, homemade coffee cake, hot rolls and honey among the specialties at the 7:30 breakfast, served by the members of the Youth Fellowship of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church. The young people do all the preparing and serving and cleaning up, but they're backed by their mothers in the kitchen.

The pleasant custom of remaining in church after the early service on Easter Sunday—which incidentally is becoming more and more popular— gives those who attend a chance to retain the mood of the day as well as to meet with their friends in the friendly atmosphere of "coffee and toast."

Mrs. Hoppe performs

Mrs. Harry Hoppe, who is performing for the Nurses' club public meeting next Thursday evening, has her job cut out for her. She was asked to choose a book to review that no one had heard her do before, and furthermore, to select one that would appeal especially to the men. And Mrs. Hoppe has risen to the occasion. She'll review the Life of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle by John Dixon Carr (this should certainly attract those—and they number a great many—who are Sherlock Holmes fans).

This is the one time during the year that the Nurses' club asks public support for their projects, according to Ways and Means chairman Mrs. Vincent Hofeling, who is in charge of Thursday's performance. Tickets priced at 75 cents will include refreshments, and may be obtained at the door as well as from club members.

The book review, to be held at South school at 8 p. m., will be preceded by piano music by the talented localite, Dick Everett.

Egged on

The square around the Village hall will be swarming with youngsters along about 1 o'clock on Saturday, for that's the meeting place for the annual VFW-sponsored Easter Egg hunt. Of course, this isn't the hunting grounds, for they'll be kept secret until the time of the hunt.

The little children, from two to five, may have the tactful assistance of their parents who may accompany them while they hunt. The older boys and girls of grade school age, however, must hunt alone, and no pooling of eggs will be allowed. Individual prizes are being offered in both groups, with the "golden egg" worth the most of all.

Members of the VFW auxiliary will be working this Friday evening coloring what no doubt seems to them a mountain of eggs, while the men will hide them early Saturday morning.

Junior Woman's club to hold meeting April 11

The Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club will hold their next meeting April 11 at 8 p. m. in the field house.

The speaker for the evening will be Mrs. Sherman T. Winter, who will speak on "The Art of Textile Painting."

Hostesses for the evening will be Marjorie Sayers, Lorraine Sargent, Jeanette Smith, Joanne Taylor and Lois Unger.

Final plans for the Parents and Daughters banquet to be held at Simson's in April will be discussed.

Women learn how state laws are made

Club women, educators, school board presidents and civic leaders heard Senator Arthur J. Bidwill discuss legislative procedure and taxes last Thursday afternoon at the South school, Arlington Heights.

Senator Bidwill's educational talk was the principal feature of the final study group session offered to members of the Arlington Heights Woman's club by its American Citizenship committee.

Among the guests introduced to those present by Mrs. R. E. Clabaugh, vice-president, were: Edward B. Simon, Cook County Superintendent of Schools; Elmer F. Laurin, president, Arlington Heights Township high school Board of Education; William H. Spears, president, Prospect Heights Board of Education; Nicholas M. Lattof, president, Arlington Heights elementary Board of Education; LeRoy J. Knoeppel, high school principal; R. E. Clabaugh, Arlington Hts. Public schools superintendent; Hugh C. Kibbie, Prospect Hts. school principal; Forrest Davis, Village clerk; Walter C. Borman, Jr., president Prospect Heights PHIA.

Mrs. W. H. Spears, American Citizenship chairman, enumerated the committee's activities during the past season, and gave a brief outline of study group sessions covering "The Story of the Constitution." Mrs. George N. Tuttle, club president, introduced Senator Bidwill.

Senator Bidwill began his talk with an interesting word picture of the 7th Senatorial district, of which this area is a part, followed by an equally interesting picture of the General Assembly and our State government. The Senator then discussed legislative procedure, explaining how laws originate, are handled by committees through public hearings and brought to the floor of the Senate or House of Rrepresentatives.

He then showed copies of the Journal and Digest, explaining how legislators keep abreast with the maze of bills advancing through the legislative first, second and third readings prior to arriving at the passing or rejection stage on the floor. He next described the voting procedure in the Senate and then traced a bill's action through concurrence with the House, to the Governor who could sign, veto, or permit the bill to become law without his signature.

The senator terminated his remarks with what he called "a scolding," emphasizing the apparent apathy of the public on election days. He said that interest and knowledge of government, and participation in elections by voting is necessary if we desire to preserve our present form of government by the people.

During the question period the senator discussed rising taxes. He urged that local governments tax on the local level rather than passing the public's demand for more benefits on to the state for action. He said one effective way to stop the exorbitant rise in taxes was for the public to stop making demands for further and additional benefits.

Following the meeting refreshments were served. Hostesses were: Mrs. Sheridan T. Winter; Mrs. Richard E. Lambert, Mrs. Francis Major and Mrs. W. Stewart Hough.

'Runaway' raft leaves youth stranded on island

A lagoon, a raft, an island, two boys with vacation time on their hands and a strong sense of adventure in their hearts were the component parts of a thrilling rescue story which happened last Monday about noon on the Old Orchard golf course at Prospect Heights.

The two boys who hailed from Arlington Heights and were about eleven years old set out, one at a time, to reach the island in the lagoon on the golf course by sailing on a raft. Unfortunately, when the first boy reached the island, the raft refused to obey the order of his hands and sailed down the middle of the pond instead of turning toward the waiting second adventurer.

SEVERAL BOYS who saw the predicament of the stranded youngster called the Prospect Heights Fire department and Dave Wium, Charles Nick, John Brennan and Fire Chief Foor answered the call. Jim Service, greenskeeper, was also on the scene to aid. However, attempts were vain to rope the raft or to find another boat. Parenthetically, it may be remarked that the water would have gone over the tops of the firemen's rubber boots, but the stranded boy was in no danger.

Pete Green, a high school student from Prospect Heights and a Sea Scout, became the hero of the hour when he dressed himself in a complete body-covering rubber suit that he had at home and was able to get in deep enough to guide a raft which had been impressed from the slough and thus happily complete the rescue attempt.

Chief Foor, in commenting about this happening, stated that the next need of the department to be filled would be for a flat bottomed boat. The slough is weedy and it is impossible to know the exact depth of the water at any certain point, particularly where peat holes burned in the past. The raft, which was picked up from the slough and being held at the firehouse, will be released to the parents of the boys, if they come to request it. It is hoped that an early warning will prevent another rafting story from having a tragic ending instead of a humorous twist.

Corn allotment notices mailed to farmers

Official notices of 1950 corn acreage allotments were mailed Monday, April 3, by the Cook County Production and Marketing Administration Office.

The chairman explained that the county allotment was based on the County's annual planted acreage during the 10-year period, 1940-49, with adjustments for abnormal weather conditions, trends in acreage, and other factors. "Corn growers in Illinois must plant within their farm acreage allotments to be eligible for Federal price supporting loans and purchase agreements on their 1950 corn crop," the chairman stated. "The Agricultural Act of 1949 assures 90-percent of parity support to 'co-operators' in this area for the 1950 crop."

"AS COMPLIANCE with acreage allotments is purely voluntary," said Mr. Bormet, "the only direct penalty for overplanting in 1950 will be loss of eligibility for Federal price support. We believe, however, that corn growers will wish to consider the possible effect of another huge corn crop on market prices for corn and its products before they decide how much to plant in 1950." The chairman also points out that marketing quotas for the 1950 crop was averted by a comparitively narrow margin, and that whether or not quotas, with penalties for overplanting, will be required after 1950 will depend largely on how well producers cooperate with the acreage allotment program.

8 VETERANS BACK FOR BISON NINE; LEAGUE TO OPEN MAY 2

MACS SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

The weatherman willing, Palatine, Arlington and Geneva will open their track schedules Friday afternoon in a triangular meet on Ost Field in Palatine. The Pirates expect to have a strong well balanced team. What Arlington will have as a team is not known but what they have as an individual is Gordon Busse. The mighty mite was one of the best 100 yard dash men and broad jumpers in the state last year. This year watch Gordie go.

Dundee on Palatine home schedule in '51

The Palatine-Dundee basketball contract went into effect following Palatine's building addition referendum Saturday. Dundee wanted to play Palatine on a two year contract with a game there next year and a return match at Palatine in November, 1951. The catch was if Palatine had a regulation floor on which to play. Barrington's game with Dundee this past season drew 1,500 spectators with 300 others turned away. Palatine will also play Leyden and Libertyville away from home next year with return engagements to be staged in the new gymnasium.

New Palatine gym designed for P.E. classes

This sounds like the gymnasium being planned at Palatine as a part of the new building addition is primarly a basketball gym. This is a false assumption. It will make a broader sports program possible with more boys getting a chance for basketball competition both inter-school and intra-mural, but the main consideration in the planning is physical education.

With rollaway bleachers all of the gym will be used for physical education class work. Palatine will join a vast number of schools in Illinois who have acted to provide the facilities for daily physical activity classes in line with the state law. Palatine's building referendum, which passed by a ratio of 2½ to 1, is expected to bring new building facilities by September 1951.

Bill Cipri hopes to beat old Barrington team mates

Bill Cipri is one of the boys Coach Welty is depending on to give Palatine a strong track team. Cipri got a place in the mile in the Northwest Conference meet in his freshman year running on the Barrington team. Work after school hours kept Cipri out of track the past two seasons.

Last fall he ran cross country and is ready for a good year helping the Pirates beat Barrington. Cipri came to Palatine High at the start of his junior year. Saturday "Bill" ran a 5:02 mile in the Oak Park Indoor Relays which is good with no outdoor work possible to date on a cinder track.

Older brother a Pirate all time star

If Bill Cipri has the competitive spirit and courage of his older brother, Anton, we predict a big year for him. Anton was one of Palatine's greatest athletes of all time. He was an outstanding performer in every run ning event from the 100 yard dash to the mile run. He could run the 100 in :10.2, a Palatine record, and break five minutes in the mile.

He ran the 880 in 2.10 and the 220 in :23 flat. His best event was the 440. At his best he ran the quarter in close to 51 seconds. Twice he won the Evanston district meet 440, but both times had bad luck in the state meet, being spiked one year and the other being bumped off the track. "Anton the Antelope," as the Champaign News-Gazette spoke of him, was rated first among quarter milers in Illinois in his senior year, 1941.

In 1940 at the Proviso Relays Cipri ran two 52 second quarter-miles as Palatine broke the record in the mile relay and the medley relay. The medley mark still stood when Proviso discontinued their relays a few years ago. In the mile relay he was teamed with John Senne, Bob Hollinger, and Silas Trepus. In the medley he teamed with Hollinger, Senne. and Jim Langhoff.

Palatine accepts bid to DeKalb holiday tournament

DeKalb's annual 16 team holiday basketball tournament has a real competitor next year in Hinsdale. With a new gym seating about 4.500 spectators Hinsdale is staging a Christmas vacation period tournament of their own and we hear that they have drawn away some of the strongest talent from the DeKalb tournament.

DeKalb will probably go back to a tournament made up of smaller schools. Palatine was called Monday and invited to enter the DeKalb tournament and accepted as the 16th entry. This past year Palatine took second at the Mooseheart Holiday Tournament won by Crystal Lake.

Arlington doped to get state regional next year

Arlington Heights will be angling for the state regional basket ball tournament next year and they ought to get it hands down. To date Elgin has the best gym for it with a seating capacity of 2,500 and Woodstock with seats for about 1.500 has had a turn regularly. Arlington will be able to top this total by 2,000 seats and should easily get the bid. To get it will mean a couple of thousand dollars in the Arlington athletic coffers and that would finance a lot of athletic expenses.

Globe Trotters are ball handlers deluxe

That good ball handling is the most important basketball fundamental skill was demonstrated at the Stadium Sunday night when Abe Saperstein's fabulous Harlem Globe Trotters whipped a team of college all-Americans handily. They won so easily that they had a chance to clown in the closing minutes and made some of the boys who tried to get the ball look silly.

The two teams have 17 more appearances in as many days in the larger cities of U.S. and the All Americans will no doubt become more of a playing unit and probably win their share. However, on this trek around the country no one is kidding themselves that it is the All-Americans who will be drawing the crowds for it certainly is not. The fans love to see the "Trotters" and if they can win and clown it is that much more of a drawing card.

31 schools sign thus far for Palatine Relays

More than 30 schools have signified their intention of entering the 18th annual Palatine Relays to be held Saturday, April 29. Teams will compete in "A" and "B" classes divided on an enrollment basis at 425. A total of 280 medals will be given for five places in each event. Trophies will be given in each class. Naperville is the defending champion in class "A" and Mooseheart in class "B" and both are expected to make a strong bid for repeat championships.

The field events including shot, discus, broad jump, high jump, and pole vault will be completed in the morning program starting at 9:30. All track events will be run in the afternoon beginning at 1:00. Track events include frosh-soph relay, two mile relay, half mile relay, mile relay, 320 yard high hurdle shuttle relay, and 432 yard low hurdle shuttle relay, the mile run, and the 100 yard dash. The relays and the mile run are staged in two classes. The 100 yard dash and the field events are open with points won by each school counting in their class.

This meet is one of the largest relay meets in Illinois and is easily the largest put on for small schools. Outstanding competitors showing up in this meet usually win places in the state meet later in the season. A total of as many as 600 boys will be competing in this meet which has grown from year to year and will have a record entry list this season.

Schools indicating they will compete in the big Palatine meet April 29 are Arlington Heights, Belvidere, Bensenville, Crystal Lake, Argo, DeKalb, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Leyden, Niles, Naperville, Zion-Benton, and Geneseo in class "A". In the "B" division will be Barrington, Antioch, Harvard, Hononegah of Rockton, Dundee, Princeton, Palatine, Marseilles, Mooseheart, Geneva, Rochelle, Sycamore, St. Charles, Sandwich, Somonauk, Marengo, Woodstock, West Chicago, and Wauconda.

Heights softball entries must be in April 15

Teams interested in entering the Arlington Heights 12-inch fast pitching softball league this coming season are requested to contact Fred Brehm, % Stein's candy shop, 109 N. Evergreen street, Arlington Heights. Complete information about the teams is needed. All entries must be in by April 15.

Distance running candidates at Palatine high school

The boys pictured above are the candidates for the 880 and mile on Palatine's veteran track team. From left to right — Bill Cipri, Jim Vogt, Art Stockel, and Matt Merfeld. Vogt, a soph, and Merfeld, a senior, were letter winners in the mile run last year. They will compete in the Palatine Relays April 29.

14 veterans form nucleus of Arlington track squad for new coach Russ Attis

by BOB PADDOCK

Arlington Heights track prospects would be rosy — except for the bad weather that has dogged all high schools of this area and has restricted inside workouts only for hopefuls. And these are limited to only a few due to the hard floors in the high school, according to track coach Russ Attis at Arlington High.

Last year the Card cindermen performed creditably, winning all duals and copping fourth spot in class A of the Palatine Relays. This season fourteen lettermen are back and could give a good account of themselves.

TRACK HOPEFULS this year are listed according to events with names of boys sure to compete. For the sprinters fans will discover five boys, four of them lettermen. Gordon Busse, reknown for his 100 yard dashes, heads the list which includes Emmett McDougall, Augie Krause, George Kovacik and Bob Packard. Packard was a minor letter winner last season.

In the hurdles Ron Anderson and Paul Roche are returning veterans with Warren Lattof, Bob Jackish, Norman Leckband, and Krause in the group.

MIDDLE DISTANCE runners include five boys, all letter winners last year: Dick Spratt, John Horcher, Rog Kennedy, Bob Neuman and Jim Blackburn.

The relay team is certain to include Krause, Busse and McDougall, with Kovacik and Packard fighting it out for the other position.

Other runners on the squad include Herbert VanDriel in the quarter, probably; Dave Kurtz possibly in the mile; and Chappie Peterson in the sprints. One letterman of last year, Geisler, is not out for track this season.

IN THE FIELD events a fair number of boys are out. Busse, Roche, Packard and Ron Tossman will compete in the broad jump. Bill Morrison, Tossman and Packard will high jump, while Norman Leckband and Elroy Wilke are entered in the pole vault.

In the weights will be found Jack Deininger, Arnold Kost and Jim Schwartz. First meet for Arlington is Friday afternoon at Palatine against the Pirates and Geneva. Next week the Cardinals travel to Dundee.

Newcomers interested in joining the league may call Mrs. H. H. Bullwinkle at Mt. Prospect 1220. S

Heights firemen lose again to Vernon five

Arlington Heights firemen are willing to admit that Vernon firemen are the better bowlers. Saturday night's final match game, bowled on the Des Plaines alleys, proved the fact. After the second game, it was anybodys' match with Vernon ahead by only one pin, but they came back strong in the final game to win, 2516 to 2410.

George C. Poole Fordettes, girl bowlers, copped a close match Saturday night on the Arlington Heights Bowling Lanes when they edged Flaherty Jewelers, 2157 to 2134.

High for the Fords was Mildred Porvich with 490. Betty Reibe was second with 466. High for the losers was Louise Kyska with 469, with Erna Frohne's 437 second.

Jim Rudnick bowls 250 and collects $50

Jim Rudnick bowling in the House league on Meier & Helms alleys in Palatine, renewed his membership in the 250 club last week when he rolled 250 and collected a dollar from each bowler in the league.

This is the second time this season Jim has made the grade. Other games were 190 and 210, for a 650 series. He is a member of the Tharp funeral squad.

In other news at the Palatine alleys, the Tharp squad which recently won the team event in the Elgin bowling association tourney, received the first place trophy and individual awards this week.

Former Bisons going on in baseball

Word was received from a couple of Bison baseball alumni. Bill Robertson is now trying out with Springfield, a Class D farm club of the Chicago Cubs. He previously attended a Washington Senator school at Cocoa, Florida.

Dick Steffenson is now in Florida trying out with a farm club of the Cleveland Indians.

Reports from California indicate Bob Thollander is holding his own, too, for City College of San Francisco. Just last week Bob belted a homer in the ninth with one on to pull his own game out of the fire.

He allowed nine hits, struck out twelve, and did a "masterful job" according to coast sports writers.

Wheaton hobby show next week

For the 13th consecutive year the Woman's society of the Gary Memorial Methodist church, Wheaton, will present their Antique and Hobby show. The show will be held in the church's Community house next week, Wednesday through Friday, from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day.

The Community house is located a block north of the CA&E and C&NW depots in Wheaton, and luncheon, tea and supper will be served on all three days by the Women's society.

The show will include exhibits by dealers, handicraft articles made by disabled veterans, private exhibits by hobbyists, table settings and quilts and handwork. The members of the society are proud of their reputation for presenting one of the outstanding shows in the middle west.

Paddock girl bowlers win for men teammates

Women members of Paddock Publications bowling aggregation proved their worth Saturday afternoon when they saved the day (and the lines) for the men when the Heights keglers rolled out a 52 pin victory over the Illinois Agricultural Association five.

The printers' men squad floundered all afternoon, losing by 60, 90 and 50 pins, but the girls took their half by 30, 30 and 190. Match was rolled on the Des Plaines Bowling Lanes.

High for the Heights men was Frank Stites with 504, Wally Duenn gaining second with 491. Tops for the local women was Laura Skoog with 448, with Betty Schoepke's 423 close behind.

Paddock Men: Wally Duenn 491, Bob Paddock 418, Bud Booth 403, Frank Stites 504, Ed Duenn 466, 802, 714, 766, 2282.

Palatine nine will have to start from scratch

Palatine's baseball team last year had only one senior in the lineup, but Coach Bailey still has to develop the greater part of a new team this year due to drop outs. Last year's soph battery of Ed Rose and Jim Lorden is gone as both dropped out of school this past winter.

Paul Krause who played short stop as a freshman has also dropped out after becoming ineligible. Dick Brumm, letterman catcher, was involved in a serious auto accident and while back in school does not as yet have the o. k. sign from his physician to play ball.

In this situation Bailey may have to use Ward, last year's frosh catcher. The lad has lots of ability but little experience. Rick Jarvis, a transfer from Hyde Park High last fall, will probably do most of the pitching. Fred Herbertz, a junior, is a letterman at first base.

Don Klein and John Waznik shared second base duties last year and one will probably be shifted to fill the hole at shortstop. Ken Kolze, sophomore, is the leading candidate for third base. Palatine has an outfield of Howard Kagay, Don Rogers, and Bill Senne available for another season. Dick Gordon and Wayne Ellis, outfield reserves are also out for baseball again.

The Palatine baseball team has not had any outdoor work outs to date. The opening non-Conference game with Northbrook here is only two weeks away.

Meneguin hopes to get outside 'rain or shine' this week

by BOB PADDOCK

Coach Tom Meneguin hasn't been able to either get the gym or move his boys outside at Bensenville high school but had definite plans for the Bison nine this week "by hook or crook."

In spite of lack of practice to date, the conference season opening in May, Bison chances, at least insofar as returned letter-men are concerned, are good for a second place fight. "The experts" pick Ela to cop the trophy with Barrington running a close second.

With eight veterans back, Coach Meneguin has the nucleus with only the outfield to be built entirely from scratch.

EINAR ERICKSON rates top spot on the mound for the Bisons this year. He appears stronger and faster than last, and will be aided by Ewald Lang, relief pitcher in '49. Lang is a slow curve man, contrasting with Erickson's speed.

Behind the plate will be a trio, headed by Jerry Anderson, Jim Bauer and Jim Markowitz. Sixty boys were expected to report to Meneguin this week, and will include plenty of candidates for the frosh-soph aggregation, as well as competition for some of the varsity jobs.

THE INFIELD is pretty well set thus far, with Leonard Egly at first, Dan Tomcheff at second, Chuck Yeates at short, and Alex Velco in the hot corner. All of these men named are seniors and lettermen.

Other prospects for the squad "observed" by Meneguin as they attended classes, include:

Jerry Daly for third base, a sophomore.

Phil Lohr, lefty, a senior.

Cliff Modrich, pitcher, sophomore.

Tom Hoy, catcher, junior.

JIM CARRIGAN, sophomore, pitcher of last year's yearling squad, came down with pneumonia early in the year, and will not be able to participate in spring sports.

OBITUARIES

Dora Busse

Funeral services for Dora Busse, nee Wille, are being held today, Thursday, at 2:30 p.m. from Oehler's Des Plaines. Rev. Allen H. Fedder officiating. Interment Ridgewood.

Mrs. Busse was born March 7, 1878, in Elk Grove township and died April 4. She was married to Martin Busse, who died in August, 1949, by Rev. Haake of Elk Grove. She had been a resident of Des Plaines for 23 years and lived at 1047 Greenview ave.

Surviving are seven children: Elmer, Gertrude Behrens, Mabel Spiegler, Franklin, Della Lemke, Olive Schweppe, and Melvin; 17 grandchildren, and three brothers, John, William C. and Martin Wille.

Emma B. Dyer

Funeral services for Emma B. Dyer, nee Brockman, were held April 2 in the Long Grove church. Mrs. Dyer died last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Stoerp of Prairie View.

Mrs. Dyer was born near Long Grove on June 12, 1877, and in 1910 was married to Albert Dyer and moved to Canada. Mr. Dyer preceded her in death in 1922, and since that time Mrs. Dyer has made her home with the Stoerps.

A brother, Ed Brockman of Palatine, survives.

John Bressner

Funeral services for John Bressner were held Sunday from Fairbanks and Stirlen Home for Funerals, Barrington, with Rev. Bertram G. Swaney of Barrington Methodist church officiating. Interment was private.

Mr. Bressner was born August 31, 1871, in Grundy county, near Dwight, Ill. He died March 30, 1950, at the Bee Dozier Rest home near Barrington.

He was married to Mary E. Sefton in August, 1913, and the couple made their home on a farm near Dwight for many years. For the past few years he has made his home with his son, Kermit John Bressner of Arlington Heights.

Surviving besides his wife and son are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louis Oran of LaPorte, Ind., four grandchildren, and a cousin who was especially close to him, Mrs. Bertha Lindeman of Chicago.

"Spoiling" Children

Although many parents feel that they will "spoil" their children by responding to their slightest wail, an infant under four months or so needs so much close contact with his mother that his demands for handling or rocking should never be brushed aside. A sick baby, or one who has been hard to nourish properly, needs all the satisfaction and comfort possible.

Schaumburg twp. had 16,690 acres of tillable land

Schaumburg township had 16,690 acres of tillable farmland in use on 131 farms last year, County Assessor John S. Clark today announced.

In 1948 Schaumburg farms reported 16,828 acres of tillable land, Clark said.

Making public the Assessor's annual farm acreage census, Clark said that Schaumburg farms grew 17 different crops including truck and garden. Township farmers also reported 1,399 apple and 247 peach trees.

In addition nine farms reported that 332 cattle and calves were placed on grain feed for market.

The acreage census, gathered last year, reports crops actually grown in 1948, Clark explained. In April the Assessor's office will begin the new census.

PRINCIPAL CROP grown was corn with 123 farms reporting 5,416 acres. Oats were second with 3,884 acres from 124 farms. These two crops account for about 55 per cent of total acreage in operation in the township, Clark said.

Other crops included wheat, alfalfa, clover, rye and sweet corn.

Clark praised Schaumburg Township Assessor William Greve for his work in collecting farm statistics.

Clark said local assessing officers have been taking the census since 1937.

"Our statistics go to the State Department of Agriculture," Clark explained. "They are made available to the Federal government and other educational, agricultural, transportation and financial interests which want this kind of data."

IN THE ENTIRE county 3,387 farms reported 277,691 acres in operation in 1949, a drop of 13,396 acres over 1948.

Clark said the drop was caused by farmland turned into residential areas, and the selling of land to the Forest Preserve districts and the County Highway Department.

As before, corn and oats were the leading county crops. The county reported 26 kinds of crops making it one of the most productive areas in the state. County farmers led Illinois in truck garden crops.

Following is a break-down of Schaumburg's chief crops and acreage:

Crop	Acreage
Corn	5,416
Oats	3,884
Clover	1,156
Alfalfa	1,792
Wheat	274
Rye	39
Sweet Corn	56

Look how you save with Dynaflow

First thing you notice, of course, is the bother and effort Dynaflow Drive* saves.

Next, that Dynaflow saves you physically—after long trips you're less tense and tired, more relaxed.

But then, as the miles pile up—and this comes from cold, recorded fact after Dynaflow's two years of public operation—you spot savings you hadn't expected . . .

You save on tires—because power application is steady, even. On clutch expense—the usual friction clutch is gone.

You save on transmission maintenance, and the rear-axle expenses likely to go with it. And the way your engine is oil-cushioned against normal shocks and strains shows up in less engine upkeep.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

You may well discover another pleasant surprise, too.

We are getting a steadily mounting number of well-satisfied letters about gasoline mileage with Dynaflow cars.

The SPECIAL has shown some records little short of phenomenal. The SUPER is delivering mileage that compares most favorably with gear-shift cars. And the ROADMASTER more than holds its own with cars of its size and bulk.

In short, there's a lot more to please your budget in the 1950 Dynaflow than its new lower price. Refinements over the past two years result in savings that are sizable over the life of the car.

Knowing that, don't you want us to demonstrate the big side of Dynaflow—the utter smoothness of America's first oil-does-it-all drive?

Only Buick has Dynaflow—and with it goes: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

Matchless Team — DYNAFLOW and F-263

In the Buick beauty pictured here you can have both Dynaflow and Buick's very latest in power. For every 1950 SUPER has the F-263 engine, that lively high-compression stepper that's the big power thrill of the season. Dynaflow Drive is optional equipment at extra cost.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT
This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

To put Hoover report before Illinois public

Pledging active support of their membership, many statewide civic groups are joining the educational campaign recently launched by the nonpartisan Illinois Citizens for the Hoover Report, it was stated today by John Stuart, state chairman.

Organizations which have assured the chairman of their support are the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Clubs of Illinois, Lions International, Illinois Agriculture Association, Illinois Manufacturers' Association, Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, and the League of Women Voters.

"Only a citizenry informed on the actual facts of the report," Mr. Stuart said, "can intelligently guide their Congressmen in the legislation necessary to place the recommendations into effect."

The aim of the Illinois Citizens for the Hoover Report, he said, is to make available to every Illinois citizen a general knowledge of the report and legislation concerning it. Now pending in Congress, he added, is a Postoffice bill incorporating many of the Commission's recommendations to modernize the postal service. This bill is being held up in committee.

Infant Mortality

The baby born in this country in 1950 can look forward to 30 more years of life than did the infant of just 100 years ago, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. While the expectation of life at birth was approximately 40 years in 1850, it is nearly 70 years today. The greater part of the gains have been the result of reduced mortality in infancy and early childhood.

Here's warning to householders for cleaning

Since Spring has officially arrived (March 21) this means that officially, too, the Spring housecleaning season has started.

Homemakers need no reminder of this, but a word of warning is issued to save many women and householders from possible death and serious injury as the rugs are rolled up and the winter dust exodus begins.

In the series of don't for housewives, the following specific hazards are listed by the Council:

1. Don't allow rolled rugs to block doorways for yourself or anyone else to stumble over.
2. Don't permit stray tacks or nails to lie about on floors to be stepped on.
3. Don't try to save steps by piling your arms so full of things that you will miscalculate a step in ascending or descending stairs.
4. Don't climb onto a rocker or an unsteady chair to take down curtains or draperies. A safe, steady step-ladder was designed for this purpose.
5. Don't use the tops of mantels or cabinets as storage places until you want to return things to their proper places, as books, pictures, or anything with a tendency to slide can easily fall and strike someone.
6. Don't let oily rags or any other debris accumulate for several days since the fire hazard is greatly increased.
7. Don't use highly inflamable cleaning fluids near an open fire.

Douglas Fir

Lumber cut from the same tree or log of Douglas fir consists of several classes of grades suitable for a variety of purposes. The inner part of the log will usually be tight-knotted although coarse-grained, while finer-grained material is found toward the outer edges. In larger, older logs the tight-knotted center area may be surrounded with a layer of lumber with black or loose knots which eventually give way to a layer of clear wood.

Poor Risks

Chicks suffering from parasitic diseases and nutritional disorders are poor risks for vaccination. For this reason, the condition of the flock should be investigated before vaccination is attempted. The advice applies to all four poultry diseases against which vaccines have been developed: fowl pox, laryngotracheitis, Newcastle disease, and infectious bronchitis.

Wilson School Community News

Nomination and election of a new school board member will be held between 6 and 9 p. m. at the Wilson school on Saturday. All residents of this school district are urged to vote.

On April 12 between 9 and 11 a. m. the school nurse will be at the Wilson school to register those children entering the first grade next fall. Parents are requested to bring their children during those hours, and each child should have his birth certificate.

Two new pupils were entered last week, Phyllis Bassraba, second grade, and her brother, Kenneth, first grade. They moved to Pinegate with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bassraba from Windsor, Ontario, Canada, and at present are staying with the Simondsons until they locate in their own home.

Miss Paulus accompanied the officers of the Achievement club on a trip to the Museum of Science and Industry last Monday. The officers are Mary Kingsley, Phyllis Erickson, Raymond Miller, Mavis Prehm, Fred Wimlinger and Hazel Rickert.

There will be no school Good Friday, April 7, a legal holiday.

Reservations have been coming in very nicely for the chicken-ala-king supper to be held at the school Friday evening, April 14, between 5 and 7 p. m. Tickets are 50c and every one is invited. Following the dinner, the PTA will hold their regular monthly meeting, after which will be election of officers.

Mrs. Fred Meier left St. Francis hospital last Sunday and is convalescing at her home on Palatine rd.

Mrs. Stolts is still on the sick list, suffering from rheumatism and arthritis. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Art, Ed and Steve Balek are having a much needed rest and vacation in Miami, Fla. They will probably return in another week, having been gone for two weeks.

Silk Shantung for Spring

Notched revers, drop shoulders, and a new Oriental cuffed sleeve effect are fashion highlights of this pure silk shantung suit dress. It has a straight, slitted skirt, moonstone buttons and a Margie of A. Goodman label. The colors are shrimp, fawn, navy or black. Cosmopolitan magazine editors chose it for spring wardrobes. The price—about $40.

Petitions ask annexation to Prospect Heights Rural Fire Protection District

Petitions are being circulated in two areas north of Arlington Heights asking annexation of Prospect Heights Rural Fire Protection District.

Before any legal steps are taken, the district wants to find out how large an area wants to be included.

"THE DISTRICT of which F. E. Foor is president, has called a meeting for April 10, at 7:30 p. m. in the Prospect Heights Fire House at which time residents within the area outlined below will have the opportunity to say whether or not they desire to be included.

"We do not want to annex any area unless the majority of the residents are in favor of the district," says Mr. Foor. "We want to get both sides of the picture at the April 10 meeting."

Present district boundaries extend from Schoenbeck road to Wheeling rd.; Palatine rd. south to Foundry rd., which includes little more than the Prospect Heights community.

IT IS PROPOSED that the enlarged district shall include an area bounded on the north by the section line half way between Hintz and Dundee rds.; on the east by Wolf rd.; on the west by Arlington Heights rd.; on the south by Euclid rd.

There are some deviations to the straight lines of the above description.

The high insurance rates for areas without fire protection has influenced a number of the newer residents who are building homes in the rural sections to ask for the annexation.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS Fire Protection District has its own fire house and equipment. Outstanding bonds will be reduced this year to $3,000. The firemen have plans to purchase a second pumper without a bond issue.

"We want both sides of the proposition discussed at the April meeting," says Foor. "We want everybody to be there."

F.F.A. parliamentary team brings home first

For the second time in two weeks the Arlington Heights Chapter of Future Farmers of America has come home from the section six contests with first place honors.

The group includes 16 high schools which offer Vocational Agriculture in the northeast corner of the state. It was the Parliamentary Procedure team that brought home the banner last Thursday and the previous week Don Linneman was presented with the gold medal for his winning speech. Belvidere was second at each contest.

Members of the parliamentary team are Don Linneman, chairman; Ronald Botterman, secretary; Norman Silge, Herbert Reckamp, and Ray Lumpp, members; with Kenneth Jacobson as alternate. Mr. William Linneman, chairman of the F.F.A. committee for the vocational education advisory council, accompanied the boys.

J. D. Bryson, F.F.A. advisor and Vo-Ag. teacher, states that the boys will compete in one of the five divisional state contests to be held at Urbana next June. Bryson states further, "One of the main objectives of the Future Farmers organization is to teach leadership, and active participation in group meetings is one of the best devices for cultivating this latent talent."

Gas low? Speed like mad then get out and walk

The motorist who speeds up to reach a filling station before his gasoline supply runs out is putting his own head in the noose.

Speed not only can be unsafe; it's extravagant, says the Chicago Motor Club.

Studies show that, in general, the most efficient and economical speed of a car is between 25 and 30 miles per hour, the Motor Club traffic engineers say. More force is required to propel at car at high speeds than at low speeds, chiefly because wind resistance increases in proportion to the speed. An average of 50 miles per hour often requires twice as much gas as an average of 35 miles per hour.

Here are some tips on gasoline economy:

AVOID RACING the engine. This burns as much gasoline as though you actually were speeding and it greatly increases motor wear.

Avoid excessive choking during warm-up period. Never leave the choke button out longer than is necessary to get the car running evenly. Leaving the choke out causes excessive raw gasoline to be sucked into the cylinders.

Start, drive and stop slowly. Driving at high engine speeds in low or second gear can easily double the amount of gasoline used in getting away. Quick acceleration and screeching stops both waste gas.

Shut off the engine when waiting. Don't leave it running while waiting for a slow freight train. The amount of gasoline required to start a car is negligible. An idling motor, however, sometimes uses a quart in two ten minute stops.

Mastitis in Sheep

Mastitis, a common udder infection of cattle, also can be troublesome in sheep. A veterinary medical bulletin reports that as many as 20 per cent of the affected ewes in some flocks die from this disease. In addition, some lambs die because the ewes are too sick to nurse them. The trouble usually comes on rapidly. High fever, rapid breathing, and loss of appetite are typical symptoms. It is believed that large lambs which nurse roughly may injure the udder, thereby making the ewe more susceptible to the disease.

Our Aim: To Fear God, Tell The Truth, and Make Money

John E. Best, pioneer physician, came to Arlington 80 years ago

The attention of the Way-Back-When editor was called last week to the fact that eighty years ago, March 28, 1870, Dr. John E. Best, a young physician came to Arlington Heights. Before his death, his son, Dr. Bruce T. Best, practiced with him.

Thus, for eighty years, residents of the Arlington area have had available the medical services of a Dr. Best.

The editor has had the opportunity to scan a story of the physician Dr. J. E. Best between the years 1870 and 1900

HE FOUND the story very interesting and it will probably be equally so to readers of Paddock Publications as it tells much of the method of medical treatment, 70 and 80 years ago, the percentage of fatalities at childbirth in those days, and medical treatments before physicians even knew that there was such a thing as germs. It was a brave physician who dared to cut into the abdomen of a patient. In those days appendicitis then known as inflamation of the bowels was considered almost fatal.

The story of Dr. J. E. Best was written by his son, Dr. Bruce Best for "family" consumption. At the editor's special request he is allowing extracts to be published. They will appear during the coming three weeks.

After reading the story of Dr. J. E. Best, people of this generation can see why their prospects to live to a ripe old age are much better than it was at the time of their grandfathers.

AS AN INTRODUCTION to to the series, the following is copied from an issue of this paper August 10, 1906, which devoted its entire front page to an account of the funeral and the sermon delivered by the presiding elder, Dr. Cady of the Methodist church.

"THE FUNERAL of Dr. Best, held at 2 p. m., Sunday, August 5, 1906, on the lawn between his fine residence and the M. E. church, was the largest gathering on such an occasion ever known in this vicinity. The audience was estimated at 1,500 to 1,600 people, all anxious to pay their tribute of respect to the memory of an esteemed friend."

Then followed the sermon which paid tribute to the deceased.

"John E. Best was born October 31, 1843, in McHenry County, Illinois. His parents came from Canada in 1840 and located near Woodstock, where the first few years of pioneer life were attended with much privation and hardship.

"Dr. Best received his early education in the public schools, followed by a course in Todd Seminary at Woodstock.

"AT THE AGE of 19 he enlisted as a private in the Ninety-fifth Regiment, Illinois Volunteer Infantry. Soon after entering the service, as a result of exposure, he contracted a severe illness, which kept him in the hospital the greater part of a year and finally resulted in his discharge for disability.

"After his army experience he entered Rush Medical College, being graduated in 1870. March 28, 1870, he located at Arlington Heights, and except when engaged in taking post graduate work, he gave his undivided attention to the practice of his profession. For one year he held a position on the surgical staff of the Cook County Hospital.

His son, Bruce T. Best, was born December 3, 1876, and after graduating from Rush Medical College, became associated with his father.

"DR. BEST was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was active in Sunday school work, being for a number of years superintendent of the Sabbath school connected with his church. Politically, he was an ardent and lifelong Republican, but tolerant of the views of others.

"He always took an active interest in enterprises looking to the improvement of the village and was a liberal contributor to charitable purposes. Of sterling integrity, practical and skillful in his profession, genial and hospitable in his home and social life, he established for himself a high reputation as a public spirited and influential private citizen and a capable and useful member of the medical profession.

"He was a member of the Council of the Chicago Medical Society; the Illinois State Medical Society; the American Medical Association; the Knights of the Globe; Gen. John A. Logan Post, G. A. R.; was a Knight Templar and a Noble of the Mystic Shrine."

TALES of the STREET

—T. C. HART

GOOSE HANGS HIGH

At least that's what Fred Oswald tried to tell some of the boys the other morning when he told of seeing a big flock of geese the evening before on his way home from Elgin, and then he added a yarn about seeing one big goose hanging from a telephone wire.

When the boys started to kid him about the "goose hanging high" he said, "Well the goose was there, I can show you."

A couple of the boys took him up and said, "O.K. come on, let's see that goose." So they piled into Fred's car and started out. They drove out Palatine road to the vicinity of Eustice lake. Fred said, "It should be right about here someplace," but there wasn't any hanging goose—there wasn't even any telephone wire.

Then Fred decided he had seen his goose just west of where Barrington road crossed Palatine road so the boys drove to that vicinity but still no hanging goose.

On the way back to town Fred said, "Well anyway I have a witness. My son was with me." So after being kidded all morning by the boys downtown, Fred asked his son at noon, "Will you sign a statement that you saw that goose?" And to his vast surprise, son Charles said "no," so Fred was hanging from a limb higher than his goose on a wire.

When asked how he felt at the blow up of his goose story, he said he felt "mortified" and he is wondering who got the goose.

But the blow up of that goose story didn't daunt Fred any. The next day he came back with a yarn about seeing a pheasant hanging from a wire and this time son Charles and another witness backed him up so Freddie feels partly vindicated at least for the blow up of his "goose hangs high" story.

IN THE OZARKS

Tom Norman and Bill Kehe recently made a trip to the Ozarks and Tom was in the office the other day telling about some of the sights they saw and people they met.

They looked at one farm that was for sale by a fellow who had moved in from Ohio a little over a year ago.

When Tom asked the farmer what he had raised during the last season the surprising reply was, "Well do you know I had so much company last summer that I just didn't get time to raise anything." He was planning to plant a patch of cotton this summer if he could get an allotment of five acres from the powers that be.

The fellows both told of some fine farms along the river bottom way back from the main roads in fertile valleys, and they said that the taxes on some farms were only about ten cents per acre.

Bill, of course, was chiefly interested in farm lands while Tom had a keen eye on the theatrical interests and prospects of that section. We notice that Tom is getting to be a pretty frequent visitor to that country, dropping in on those folks every once in a while, so it wouldn't surprise us much if the lure of the Ozarks finally got him and that he'd eventually settle down among the hills.

CARS

John Morris, coal salesman, was asking Ed Haseman the other morning when Palatine Motors were going to get some new cars.

Ed, of course, couldn't promise anything until after the strike is settled and John knows plenty about what strikes can do to a fellow as John Lewis had the coal men on the hot seat all winter.

John seemed sort of relieved to be able to lean back and ask somebody else about something that was being affected by a strike, having had plenty of coal questions asked of him all winter while Lewis and his boys were doing their best to put the coal industry and themselves out of business.

MARCH ENDS

March went out fairly lamb like after turning in a pretty cold blustery month that lined up to the reputation of what March is supposed to be.

Despite its cold spells the average temperature for the month was just about normal.

Back in 1945 when we had a regular "Ozark spring" the average for the month was 15 degrees per day higher than this year but that 1945 March was one of those beautiful, rare, early springs of which we have far too few in this uncertain Great Lakes region.

ONIONS

One of the worst drops in prices that ever happened hit the onion market recently when onions that brought over $5.50 last fall fell to 44 cents.

Three hundred and forty eight cars were on track in Chicago one day with no buyers and no place to put the onions.

Some big money was made on onions during the last ten years and many onion speculators made a big hit on several occasions, but some of the boys got badly burned this year if they happened to have loaded up on a big supply at last fall's prices and then saw the bottom fall clear out at this spring's prices.

A QUESTION

We wish that we had kept count of how many times a certain question has been asked of us during the last year or so.

We didn't know the answer then and we don't know it now, so we are passing it along to the proper officials who can give the answer.

The question has been, "Why does the village board and the park board hire outside attorneys to look after their legal affairs?"

The questioners have been of the opinion that there were a lot of good attorneys now living in Palatine and that one of them could possibly serve their home community just as efficiently as some outsider.

Not knowing the answer to the question we pass the same along to the officials who know the answer.

SEED PURCHASES

For the last few years there have been a goodly number of early seed purchases by people who were sending the seed to friends or relatives in foreign countries, but this year those purchases seem to have been omitted possibly pointing to the fact that the food situation in those countries are improving.

And the weather locally has certainly not been such as to encourage anyone to want to think of seeds to say nothing of buying any.

We did see one lady selecting some watermelon seeds the other morning. Maybe she was going to start them in a pot and transplant them along late in May when danger of frost is over. That's one way to get melons started and they need all the time they can get for growing to maturity, for we often don't have too long a season for such a crop as watermelons.

TAX BILLS

The 1949 tax bills will be in the mail some time within the next few weeks and while the legal penalty date on the first installment is still May 1st, that penalty date will probably be extended to June 1st by court action, the same as it has been on other years when the bills were late and were not in the mails by April 1.

More definite information as to the penalty date will be announced some time around May 1.

WAY IN FRONT

That Friday night bowling league is hanging up some nifty scores these days and are thinking that it's about time that they were taking over the title of "Major League" which is now held by that Monday night league which sometimes acts like their name and then at times flop down so far that they look like a league of rank beginners.

In the Friday night league the Haseman team recently rolled series of over 900 for six straight weeks and were out in front making a runaway race of it by 16 games ahead of the second place team.

That sort of thing sounds like about as much of a runaway as the "Yanks" used to be in the American league.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

DEAR JANE:

I dislike having to admit this, put I'm very much afraid I've, at last, joined the ranks of those homemakers who leave their household tasks wait in favor of using precious time to listen to their favorite radio programs.

The fact of the matter is, I've succumbed wholeheartedly to the charm of Mary Margaret McBride, and her superior daily program transcribed in New York, and brought to us in the Chicago area over station WGN.

There was a time when I could truthfully say I wasn't aware of one quarter of the radio programs which many of my friends listen to daily. You see, I've had what I thought, and still think, are good reasons for my lack of interest. For instance, the greater majority of the broadcasters sound superficial about the very things they want their audiences to become interested in, so they fail to hold our attention. If they are interviewers, they give the impression of being more concerned with projecting themselves than in making an honest effort to present their guests.

Mary Margaret McBride has the charming faculty of putting her own personality in the background while she interviews noteworthy people in all walks of life from all parts of the world. She has a way of making everyone on her program feel at ease while they are on the air. One senses this while listening, and I find it a delightful experience to sit, relaxed, in my own living-room here at the farm, while I hear great personages in a studio in New York tell about their lives in the fields of art, music, theatre and literature. (I have just this morning learned that this is a good time to darn the family socks; a job I've despised throughout the entire 25 years of my married life. I found that I was scarcely conscious of the lowly task as I listened to Mary Margaret. This program lasts a full hour, so you can readily see what an impressive amount of darning could be accomplished!)

This morning, Mary Margaret, as everyone informally calls her, talked with Eddie Cantor. It was very touching. There is a sincerity about this well-known personality of the theatre, that one immediately felt as soon as he had said a few words.

One of the things I remember, though I can't quote him word for word, that seemed pertinent to the subject of brotherly love, was: that in trying to overcome prejudices in the world today, we should think of such a goal in "retail" terms. rather than on a "wholesale scale." And begin by being considerate and kindly to our own immediate neighbors. This feeling spread by them to their next door neighbors, would carry on through the community, the cities, the nation, the world. An idealistic approach to conquering prejudices, of course, but an excellent one to try.

Which thought brings me to an article of Sydney Harris' in the Chicago Daily News, March 31st issue, in case you missed it.

The title heading of his column reads: "High Road to Success—And Low." I've made carbon copies for our four sons. I hope they keep these copies in places where they can be occasionally reminded of the wisdom contained therein.

Here are a few quotations from Mr. Harris' article: "As soon as we get out into the world, there are only two possible courses open to us: either we can try to make our lives conform to our beliefs, or we can modify our beliefs to fit our lives. True happiness, I think, depends on which path we take.

"Many men, in order to achieve success, force themselves to take the latter. They lose their idealism, they become 'practical' and indifferent toward the 'moral consciousness.' Their material returns are high—but so is the price they pay. The moral consciousness eventually obtains its revenge in ulcers, in high blood pressure, in alcoholism, and in the kind of emotional collapse we wrongly call a 'nervous breakdown'."

"The other task—that of shaping our lives to the pattern of our deepest beliefs—is infinitely harder, and only a saint can perfectly achieve it. But psychologically it is the effort that counts, not the achievement. When the moral consciousness is satisfied, a man can live comfortably with himself in an igloo."

And now, I must close, for it is time to get the jeep and go to school for the boys. (Eleven year old son, Edward, says he can't wait to get a snapshot of me, a grandmother no less, riding along in a jeep, delivering mail to the neighbors, because the rural mailman hasn't been able to get through our muddy roads for the past two weeks!

That's the truth. Never have I seen the country roads in such bad condition. Trucks and four-wheel drive jeeps have been the only cars that could get out to the paved highways.

Until next week,
With love, Mary.

49'ers now subject to arrest without plates

Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett today asked the cooperation of all state, county and city law enforcing agencies "in rounding up the annual stragglers who never seem to realize it is time to purchase license plates until they are arrested."

"As of today," Barrett continued, "the '49ers face arrest."

CURIOSITY

Nature quite wisely provides the toddler with the physical ability he needs to get around and "into" everything, for that is just what he craves to do. According to Childcraft Books, parents should protect the toddler from physical danger, but they should not curb his curiosity.

ARLINGTON MUD

It is indeed a sad state of affairs when residents of as nice a town as Arlington Heights find it impossible to get through into town. But such is the situation on E. Olive St., and we who live here must either go miles out of the way to get into Arlington Heights or do our shopping in Prospect Heights. The portion of Olive St. between Belmont avenue and Dryden place is impassable and has been barricaded against any traffic.

As this is our only outlet East, this not only prevents us West, this not only prevents us from reaching State road and coming into Arlington Heights. but also leaves us without any police or fire protection from Arlington Heights. We all realize that many roads are in this deplorable state, but we hope that when the time comes for repairing roads our really desperate situation will be given quick first aid.

HELPS BOYS

We have seen many articles in your good newspaper, dealing with the subject of playground supervision of grade-school children. In accordance, we would like to bring to your attention, as well as your readers, the wonderful work being done here on the south side of Arlington Heights, by one of our young citizens, Thomas Kouros.

For the past three years, now, Tom has given many hours of his time each week, through the spring, summer, and autumn months, to teaching young grade-school boys, athletics, good-sportsmanship, and fellow teamwork, on the playground. With no thought of compensation, or personal gain, he has given this time in order that our young boys may in the future become better men. The result of his work has truly been worthwhile. Many of the boys participating in the high school athletic program, have benefited greatly from the time Tom has spent with them.

Tom aspires in becoming an athletic coach. We, know, he will make a good one. And as for the time he has spent with our boys, we, their mothers and fathers, extend our sincerest thanks and appreciation.

PALTINE MUD

What do we people of the Plum Grove section have to do to get some action on the so-called roads in front of our houses?

It's a very common sight to see cars stuck in the mud up to the fenders and people waiting for the tow truck to arrive to get them out.

We used to park our cars with two wheels in the mud and the other two wheels in the center of the road. In this way, we stood one-half chance of getting out to the highway. This is no longer possible. Why? Because even the middle of the road is mud, water, holes, and ruts.

Now that the spring rains have come, what are we to do? Park our cars on the Plum Grove Highway and WADE into our homes?

I have another complaint also. Have you noticed lately the deep water holes and all the swamps in this section that are filled with water? Does one or more of our children have to drown before something is done to remedy this condition?

CANCER DRIVE

The month of April has been set aside by presidential decree as Cancer Drive month. The Arlington Heights Woman's Club has again been asked to sponsor the drive in this community, our quota being $1,000.00.

Our town has successfully met this challenge in past years, and can only do it again thru the combined efforts of all of our people. The wonderful aid given to cancer sufferers thru research and personal aid should be an incentive for all of us to work hard toward our goal.

We feel certain that your company will want to do its part in this worthwhile drive, and request that all checks be made out to the American Cancer Society, Inc., and sent to Mrs. John F. Shanklin, Arlington Heights Chairman, as money sent direct to the Society, or to radio or television stations is not counted toward the town quota.

THE THISTLE JOB

Because all town meetings discussed on Tuesday whether or not the job should be abolished, Paddock Publications is publishing the report of the Palatine Thistle Commissioner made at the Palatine town meeting.

It being the duty of a thistle commissioner to see that noxious weeds are destroyed, I have these facts to report. In the inspection of vacant lots and grounds in subdivisions owned by McIntosh Co., Roberts Subdivision, Jules Openheim lots, Wm. DePue Real Estate, Wm. Schuchard and G. Klein, I found during the season, 87 patches of noxious weeds. In every single place these weeds were destroyed by owners when they received notice by me that they must be cut or sprayed before going to seed.

By making many long distance calls, several trips in my car to Chicago and continued persistent effort to contact the proper authority, I was able to persuade those involved to spray the Deer Grove Forest Preserve, for the second consecutive year. Palatine Twp. was first on the list this year for this service, because of my early request for this action. The tank truck and crew spent two days there in spraying all that they could reach with their equipment.

In newspaper ads and write-ups, long distance and local phone calls, radio announcements on WLS, writing letters and cards, personal contact, direct and indirect, I have tried to make all my territory conscious of the necessity of destroying noxious weeds.

I have spent much time looking up tax records to find the owner of lots covered with weeds. When possible, I have notified the owner, but in many cases, when no reply was received, I have cut these weeds with my own tractor and power mower, paying the cost of operating the machinery out of my own pocket, just trying to help the fellow next door, who has a clean yard.

During the season I traveled 2,480 miles in my car, answering calls and patrolling the roads covered by the road crews of state, county and township supervisors in my territory. Because of lack of equipment and experienced help, due to failure in securing enough financial aid, many of these patrols were far behind schedule and much progress made before, was lost. I did all I could in helping this situation by finding the places that should be cut first, thus keeping the seeds from flying.

Some one has said that all farmers would cut their weeds, whether notified or not. I belong to the Farm Bureau and as a member I know many farmers who are just a little careless in their cutting of weeds. I pestered one farmer so much that he went out and bought his own spraying equipment just to get rid of me. His claim of spending $130 for material used shows that many weeds were destroyed. I do not claim credit for all the good done by spraying 24-D, but I am responsible for a large part of it by citing instances of the good results proven by others to ali concerned.

The farmers to whom I have talked and contacted who have purchased their own spraying outfits for use on their own property are as follows:

Don Harris, Roy Reece, E. Hagenow, Boyer Farms, Meyer Bros. on Bradwell Gilbert farm on Devon, Younghusband Farms near Barrington and Melrose Farm, off N. W. highway.

Albert Glade, aside from his own farm acres, sprayed for G. Gehring, J. Kastning, Tony Smaha, R. Lesseberg, B. Lesseberg, H. Schroeder, H. Moehling, Gus Langhoff, L. T. Landwer, G. Hahn, H. Arendt, G. Freize, H. Glade, Martin Beer and Emil Berlin.

W. Scharringhausen, who purchased a sprayer this year did work for E. Wente, R. Porter, Art Haldeman, J. Pierce, Ed Haseman, F. Rathje, Wm. Freize, L. A. Grandquist and his own land.

F. Westerberg covered property belonging to H. Homeier, H. Joy, McIntosh Farms, Paul Rateike and his own farm.

Ray Glade, besides his own acres, helped Louis Rohde, Bill Nolting, Fred Glade, C. Moffett, A. Lynch and B. Carlson.

Merrill Hapke covered his own farm and acres of Louis Freize.

Hans Bergman, with his outfit, did work for E. Plote, D. Bergman, L. Luerssen, Art Jahn, H. Lasse, Ed Sporleder and Henry Luerssen.

Many farmers went in with hand sprayers to get results where only small patches of thistles and weeds were growing.

It is impossible to get all thistles becouse of the fact that out of the state owners could not be traced, but I at least made an honest effort to destroy as many noxious weeds as possible in the allotted time and budget allowed.

Respectfully submitted,
Clyde E. Moffett,
Thistle Commissioner.

GOOD DOGS

The approach of a friendly dog will not frighten a child who has first had a chance to observe one from a safe distance or has seen his mother or father pet and play with one, says Childcraft Books.

STOP IT! WE'RE GROWING TOO FAST FOR OUR BRITCHES!

If ever a newspaper can perform a civic duty of extreme importance and earn the deserved thanks of its readers, it is now when we face the consequences of premature mass building that threatens to destroy the entire character of Stonegate community.

If permits are granted for the hundreds of additional homes and tenement houses currently proposed, we face a health menace of the first magnitude. Our sewage system even now is not adequate for the present population. Flooded basements, a hazard to health and depreciated property values is the price we'd pay if promised mass building and the mushroom type of development is encouraged and permitted.

Of course we want Arlington Heights to grow—but within reason—and as the necessary health safeguards, school facilities, police and fire protection and shopping convenience can be properly provided. And we should like to know that the type of residents who are attracted to Arlington Heights conform with the fine character of the folks who established and contributed to the present growth of Arlington Heights.

We believe our mayor and city council are eager to respect the will and wishes of the majority of our citizens. Often they are unjustly criticized for failure to perform what the layman misinterprets as a simple duty. Usually the sincere, conscientious, honest city official has a thankless job. He is bound to be sniped at in the crossfire of opposing sides and contrary opinions. Often the sniping is justified—at other times it is unfair. But as a rule they will try to go along with the majority if we seek and offer cooperation by proper methods.

In the present crisis that faces us, I honestly believe that our village officials realize that any growth of a mushroom character is dangerous. It is reasonable to assume that they will cooperate if the public is emphatic in its expression that large scale expansion of our village is undesirable until, when, and if, we are ready for it and can provide the proper facilities for sound, healthy growth.

Our community newspaper becomes an important institution in reporting all facts to our residents—and acting as a clearing house between the do's and don't's and pro's and anti's and between administration and populace. Doubtless great numbers will urge you to give wide publicity to the activities of the village board, local improvement associations and home owners groups. It makes interesting reading because home and family is closest to the heart of nearly every resident.

Health comes first. You can be assured of generous support if you will campaign for the health of our families — and a moratorrum on all home construction until the necessary protection measures are adequate. Why build more homes when the present sewage system is inadequate for those we now have? Why permit selfish operators to degrade and devalue our communities so they can line their pockets?

Modern Etiquette

Q: What is the usual order of the bridal procession down the church aisle?

A. The most popular is: The ushers walk slowly down the aisle two by two. The bridesmaids follow in the same manner, the maid of honor comes next alone, followed by the bride on the arm of her father. If she has no father, or other male relative to accompany her down the aisle, she may enter alone or with her mother.

Q. Which is proper, to butter a slice of bread while holding it in the hand, or by placing it on the table?

A. Neither is correct: Only enough for one bite should be broken off, buttered, and then eaten.

Q. Is it necessary that a woman remove her gloves when shaking hands?

A. No; this is not even considered necessary for a man.

Q. Should soft-boiled eggs be eaten wtih a spoon?

A. Yes; if served in an egg cup, they may be eaten from the shell with the spoon; or, if you wish, break the egg in two, scoop the contents into an egg cup, and eat with a spoon.

Q. Is is proper to abbreviate the name of the month when writing the date in a social letter?

A. No; the name of the month should be written in full. This is also true of business letters.

Q. What should one use as a decoration for the table when giving a breakfast?

A. A large bowl of fruit or one of flowers is sufficient.

Q. Just what is the difference between "table d'hote" and "a la carte"?

A. "Table d'hote means a set price for each meal, irrespective of which dishes you order. "A la carte" means that you order "according to the card," and pay for each dish ordered.

Q. Is it all right for social correspondence to use envelopes with colored linings?

A. Yes; if transparent envelopes are used, they may be lined with colored paper to make thm opaque. But the quieter tones of lining should be used.

Q. Is it obligatory to have ushers in attendance at a small church wedding?

A. No; there may or may not be ushers, according to the preference of the bride and bridegroom.

Q. Is it obligatory to return calls of condolence?

A. No; calls of condolence need not be returned.

Two books dealing with the welfare state and aspects of the current hunt for Communists in government are creating what may be a new trend in "gifts to customers." Book dealers report large bulk orders for John T. Flynn's "The Road Ahead" by top executives who are distributing copies to their customers. A new favorite is "Seeds of Treason," a chilling convincing story of Communist infiltration of government by Victor Lasky of the New York World-Telegram & Sun and Ralph Toledano of Newsweek. It will be condensed in the May Reader's Digest.

Chest X-Rays

Today dozens of general hospitals are making it a practice to X-ray the chest of every patient admitted, for any disease or cause. They are discovering a number of people with tuberculosis, and this type of precaution is extremely valuable. Hospitals which have carried on these programs find two or three times as high a proportion of people with TB as do chest X-ray surveys made among the general population.

New economic theories of anti-trust lawyers hit by A&P official

An official of A&P Food Stores said it is up to the people and Congress — not the anti-trust lawyers—to decide whether the laws governing business competition should be changed.

John C. Brennan of Chicago, vice president of A&P's middle western division, charged that in their current suit to dissolve the pioneer food chain the anti-trust lawyers sought to "impose their new political and economic theories" on the American people.

He said he was not debating the question of whether limitations should be placed on the size to which a business can grow.

"What I am saying is that if such a policy is in the public interest the choice lies with the American people acting through their duly elected representatives in Congress," he stated.

"The choice does not lie with lawyers in the anti-trust division who would usurp the powers of Congress and impose their new political and economic theories and destroy the free enterprise system."

Discussing the anti-trust laws which he termed vague, Brennan warned that what has happened to A&P "can happen to anybody."

Because of this vagueness Brennan said he could not "honestly see how any businessman —certainly not any large-scale operator—can safely follow an aggressive sales policy without fear of attack."

Moreover, he charged the anti-trust lawyers by themselves are not capable of deciding when a company or group of companies have too large a part of a particular industry.

"If you have studied any of their recent remarks on the whole question of monopoly and the anti-trust laws," he said, "it will be as perfectly clear to you I am sure as it is to me that they have no definite idea of the difference between monopoly and size or the difference between restraint of trade and competition."

"They further admit," he contended, "that no businessman can come to them and get approval of any course of action with the assurance that this will protect him from prosecution at some future date. They admit they might tell you today what you are doing is perfectly legal and then decide tomorrow that it is illegal."

Brennan expressed hope that in the pending suit the "principles of efficient mass distribution which were pioneered by A&P and which have been so effectively developed by all the chains will be vindicated."

"We are hopeful too," he concluded, "that somehow out of this will come a clarification of the anti-trust laws so that they will be used to preserve competition but will not be used to destroy all of the great business organizations of this country which have done so much to give the American people the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any people anywhere in the history of the world."

Poultry Disease

The following three-point program—designed to reduce losses from coccidiosis as well as other costly poultry diseases—is recommended to broiler producers by poultry disease authorities. (1) Keep the brooder house well ventilated but free of drafts, and guard against overheating. (2) Avoid crowing birds. (3) Use deep dry litter and provide wire platforms under waterers. Dryness retards the development of coccidiosis organisms.

'Crakow' was the original shoe style in 1300

Lady, your Spring shoes may be nothing but toe and a four-inch heel, or merely a laced-up buckle,—and you'll still be a style conservative.

Nothing that the shoe industry has dreamed up in the last half century can match the footwear of our ancestors, who really stepped high and wide, if not handsome, according to William H. Dooley, writer for The World Book Encyclopedia, and author of the book, "History of Costume."

Dooley reports that the peak of shoe fashion in the 1300's was the "crakow", which had a toe so long and pointed that it required a chain to hold it up so the wearer could walk. Pointed toes had been regarded as a mark of distinction from early Roman times, and the aristocratic Frenchwoman of the 1700's favored a slipper with a sharply pointed toe, and a slender heel that threw her foot up to nearly a 60 degree angle.

TWO CENTURIES earlier, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth of England, a little model called the "duckbill" featured wide soles—the wider the better. A law finally was passed to limit the width to five and one-half inches. It was at about this time that members of the wooden shoe set literally "lifted themselves by their bootstraps." Their footgear had iron rings attached, to that the wearers could use them to pull their feet out of the mud.

The shape of the human foot had very little to do with the creations of cobblers of the Middle Ages. Emphasis was on decoration and unusual effects—and let the corns and bunions come where they may.

And while our ancesters may have known which way they were going, they couldn't tell one foot from the other—not from looking at their shoes, that is. Right and left shoes did not become popular until the 1850's.

Sun damages curtains more than laundry

Curtain time?

And time to inform women in general that it's not the "put them up and take them down" action—coupled with frequent launderings—that shortens the life of those lacy charmers. Sun and soil, say the textile experts at the American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center for the laundry industry, are the culprits.

Sunlight, claims the Institute after exhaustive tests on curtain panels in their laboratories at Joliet, burns delicate curtain fabrics in much the same manner as it burns a sensitive skin. While that sunshines bright on window hangings, it is at work weakening the fibers of the fabric. Weakening will occur as a result of continued exposure to the sun's rays to such an extent that the fibers will eventually break or disintegrate during the laundering process no matter how gentle the treatment. Just the weight of the wet fabric alone is then enough to cause it to fall apart.

To lessen the danger to your curtains, advises the Institute, change them from exposed to protected windows frequently. Wear and the effects of bright sunlight will then be more evenly distributed.

Presenting the Younger Generation

Cupie Doll?

If pictures could speak, bet this one would say, "Yes, I'm a very active, 'into everything' little girl."

Alanna Broker is this red haired, blue eyed, baby pictured first. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Broker, 157 N. Plum Grove, Palatine and recently celebrated her first birthday.

"She's especially fond of our dog, Taffy," replied her mother, "and follows her around everywhere." Alanna walks and runs, and says a few of those common baby words, (the kind that only proud parents can understand!)

Mr. and Mrs. John Malvin of Elmhurst are the maternal grandparents. Mrs. Ella Broker of Itasca is Alannas' paternal grandmother.

Two-Gun Barby

Barbara Jo Henkle is six years old, has pretty brown hair, decidedly blue eyes and is in kindergarten at Central school.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henkle of 908 S. Ioka, Mt. Prospect.

"Barbara is a tomboy," explained Mrs. Henkle when giving a thumbnail sketch of her youngest child. "She'd rather be out playing with the boys than home with her dolls." Western TV programs have influenced Barby who wears a gun holster belt when playing cowboys.

Sportsminded Tommy

Thomas, Barbara's brother, is the sports fan of the family.

He is eight years old and is in third grade at Central school. Tommy has brown hair, hazel eyes, and once again owns "two front teeth."

Unusually sportsminded for his age, Tommy follows all the teams, knows the winners and losers, and just what goes in the sports world.

He is a little young to participate in many sports right now, but does play baseball in the lot with the boys. Piano lessons also keep him busy.

HOBBIES Yours and Mine

BY BETTY AINSLIE

Hobbies, hobbies everywhere but found those I wished to talk to this week about their special talents down sick with colds and flu. Have been interested though in discovering some varied and exciting hobbies that even the most untalented housewife could find fun in doing.

There are clever things to be made out of felt. I have an out of town friend who makes up suspender skirts, boleros, hats, belts and purses all to match. She makes them in midget sizes and they charm all the fond mothers that see these cute outfits. Felt comes in beautiful colors and can be had in dark or light shades so that Spring and Fall outfits can be made from this material. Little sewing is needed as the edges of felt do not fray. These little skirts decorated with felt flowers are fun to make and sell like hot cakes all over town.

SPEAKING OF FELT craft I read where a California woman makes ladies handbags out of this material. These can be made to closely match or contrast with women's coats and suits and attractively monogramed making them more personal for the owner.

Of course felt toys are always popular and these are so easy to make. I've even made some of these myself, and discovered they make inexpensive and attractive gifts for the assorted nieces and nephews in the family. Felt stuffs easily and cuts to all sorts of shapes beautifully. Animal pictures in children's books or magazines make different patterns for you to copy. I found out later that wire in the legs keeps them stiff and a bit more natural looking. So possibly here is a hobby that might be a means of saving you some money on gifts for small fry.

With Spring housecleaning and what not, maybe that old cannister set in the kitchen can be brightened up with a new coat of paint and new designs. During the Winter, lampshades, wastebaskets, and pillows can hide in the gloom. But come bright sunshine and those little touches which make up a real home begin to look a bit shabby. Wastebaskets can easily be covered to match the wallpaper if you save just a scrap when you repaper the walls. Old parchment shades a bit dirty and aged can be recovered with bright ginghams trimmed in organdy and presto an old shade is usable once more.

FOR THE GAL who likes to sew and can cleverly follow designs in magazines there are all sorts of things to make. In the book, "Money Making Hobbies," by Joseph Leeming a woman found a favorite hobby by making men's aprons. Men like to whip up steaks and Russian dressings and heavy duck coveralls with some appropriate decoration on the front are just the ticket for that kitchen minded man. Once friends see the barbecue outfit you've made your husband they'll want one too, and before you know it you'll have a money making hobby for yourself.

So you see if you think you haven't any talents at all often your pet sewing project or favorite baking recipe could turn into a special bit of pin money just for you.

Logging Big Trees

The big trees of the West coast still stand in quantities that amount to hundreds of billions of board feet on millions of acres, and giant power machines are required to log them. But nowadays horses are also at work in the west coast forests, getting out the logs, along with new types of light machines. It is all part of the spreading tide of forestry, which is now rolling through the industry operations of the Douglas fir region.

Today's Easter had religious origins

The traditional Easter Parade by Emperor Constantine of Rome, of feminine finery was begun Early in the Fourth Century he was converted to Christianity. To honor the Feast of Christ's Resurrection, he decreed elaborate ceremonies at which his entire court appeared in new robes.

Almost all of today's colorful Easter traditions, from gaily-hued Easter eggs to cheery Easter greeting cards, similarly stem from centuries-old religious customs and practices.

Easter falls on April 9 this year. Officially, Easter is the Sunday following the first full moon of Springtime—a formula dating back to the Old Testament.

When the Israelites were in bondage in Egypt, Moses led them forth by the light of Springtime's first full moon. This became the Jewish Passover Season. Jesus was celebrating the Passover when he was seized and crucified. So the early Christians established Easter — the Feast of Christ's Resurrection — as a "moveable feast" like the Passover, calculated on the same ancient lunar calendar to ensure that the two holy days would always occur only a few days apart.

EARLY CHRISTIANS worshipped in secret because of Roman persecution. At Eastertime, on the walls of the catacombs they drew crosses adorned with flowers. They also dyed eggs—a practice borrowed from the Persians—staining them red to symbolize Christ's sacred blood.

Gigantic Paschal candles were instituted under Pope Zosimus to light congregations watching on Easter Eve. They were blessed while singing a triumphant hymn attributed to St. Augustine—the first "Easter music" ever composed.

Christian converts in Northern Europe found it hard to give up their belief in Eostra, beautiful pagan goddess of Spring. Her name survives in our word "Easter." The Druids in England worshipped the egg as a symbol of the witch-goddess Creirwy or Llywy, who is still remembered in children's legend as Mother Goose with her golden egg. Polish children for centuries continued to throw painted eggshells into streams to carry their Easter greetings to gnome-like men living underground.

IN MEDIEVAL Europe it was the custom to put out all household fires on Easter Eve. On Easter Morning, in the church courtyard, a new fire was struck from consecrated flints. Parishioners took home blazing torches to relight their hearth fires, symbolizing the beginning of new life. Keeping these "holy fires" going was considered protection against storms, droughts, famines, and plague.

In France and Belgium, church bells bestow more Easter eggs than the famed Easter Bunny. When the bells are silenced during Holy Week, parents explain they have flown off to get the Pope's blessing. The youngsters tumble outdoors before dawn on Easter to watch the bells "fly back from Rome" with Easter gifts. As the children scan the skies, parents secretly scatter bon-bons and colored eggs in the grass.

For centuries, from Moscow to the Rhine, decorated eggs were the traditional Easter gift among devout Christians. Mailed to distant friends, however, these fragile Easter greetings often arrived shattered. About 1850, the practical folk of Northern Germany began sending drawings of

EASTER CUSTOMS

Easter eggs instead. Holy Land scenes were substituted a few years later.

EASTER CARDS were introduced into the U. S. about 1880. Riligious themes, popular at first, gave up their lead to playful chicks, bunnies and lambs about 1900.

While whimsical designs are still in heavy demand, popular taste in the post-war years has been swinging back steadily to reverent Easter cards, thus paying tribute to Easter's ancient tradition as the greatest feast day in the church year.

O'Hara's 'A Rage To Live' frankly realistic

A Rage To Live, John O'Hara's recent much-discussed novel, is the story of a woman during the crucial years of her life.

Grace Caldwell Tate, handsome and wealthy, has the most influential position in Fort Penn, a medium-sized town in Pennsylvania. The Caldwell's standing has been unchallenged for many years and styles are set an dchanged by what they do. She is married to Sidney Tate, a New Yorker and therefore an outsider, who never feels himself to be completely accepted. With their three growing children they live on the Old Caldwell Farm near Fort Penn when the story opens in 1917.

Grace's independence is the cause of her difficulties. When overpowered by an inexplicable and uncontrollable passion, she succumbs, regardless of the consequences. The effect of this passion on her life is the story unfolded in this engrossing study of a complex woman.

The characterizations are ably done and the leading inhabitants of Fort Penn emerge alive and human. Sidney Tate, lonely in Fort Penn, loving Grace as his ideal, is unable to accept her default as a wife. Roger Bannon is the shady contractor whose brutal strength and crude good looks attract her. Roger Caldwell, Grace's brother, remains a bachelor for many years, and his aimless day is covered by the pretense of writing a history of the Caldwell family. Grace's friend, Connie Schoffstal, grows from a yes-girl admirer to an unmarried Bohemian "Con", living with a group of artists in New York.

The book has been widely criticized for its frankness and abscenity. It has a realism which will be shocking to many readers, but the characters always remain true to themselves. It is a mature study of a woman who takes what she wants and then faces the consequences.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Not so long ago, I overheard two men arguing earnestly on the street corner. Later I had an opportunity of talking to these men individually, and reminded each of them of the discussion which they had had.

"The trouble with Sam," one of the men told me, "Is that he is so prejudiced. He just can't see the light of reason!"

"George is a good fellow," the other man told me. "But he is narrow. He only sees his side of a story. He is so prejudiced!"

Personally, I think they were both wrong. But did I try to tell them my side of the story? I did not. They were both too prejudiced!

Which reminds me of a story I read in the paper the other day about a man who went into a dressing room to try on a suit he bought. There seemed to be someone elese in the dressing room, so he called the clerk.

"There's another fellow in the dressing room!" he complained.

The clerk ushered him back to the dressing room and pointed to the man's reflection in the mirror.

"Is that the fellow you saw?" he inquired.

Chagrined, the man smiled sheepishly as he recognized the man in the new suit as himself.

If you were to meet yourself on the street some day, psychologists claim, the chances are very great that you would not immediately recognize yourself.

Which is all at the bottom of a great human fact—that we do not know or understand ourselves. We are prejudiced and do not know it. We are often unreasonable, mean, hateful, selfish, bigoted, self righteous and do not know it. Most of us are so lopsided as far as our personalities are concerned that it is a wonder we can even walk straight.

And it is one of the hardest things in the world to get away from this exaggerated idea of our own importance, beauty, or intelligence. Though we may have occasional misgivings at times, most of us can readily find a justification for our faults which frees us from all blame. We would be different if—we had been raised in a different environment, had more schooling, the cards hadn't been stacked against us, we didn't have a family, we had more money, Agnes or Harold had treated us right—and so on.

But if a person has enough determination to change his life, his attitudes, prejudices and false philosophy, believe me, folks, every little gain he makes is worth the effort many times over.

Bits o' business

Another "dust bowl" on the horizon? That's the fear of the Agriculture Department's soil conservationists. Scant rain and snowfall for the past three years have gradually dried up subsoil moisture content north of the Texas Panhandle. Recommended for this area's farmers: shift plantings from wheat to grass. . . Wages haven't yet reached their ceiling — they're still moving up. Meanwhile, the jobless total may top the five million mark before mid-summer, say federal experts. The figure today: 4,700,000.

Rising labor and material costs are pushing new house prices back up again. By mid-spring the price tags on many dwellings will be marked up from five to seven per cent in many areas, builders predict. Some have already increased. . . . . The weekly paycheck of the American worker has jumped 130 per cent since 1939, according to U.S. Labor Department figures. His purchasing power, on the other hand, is up 35 per cent.

Beauty Hint

To speed up the winding of curls for a home permanent, make your comb do double duty as a ruler. Place a dot of bright enamel two and one-half inches from the end of the comb to mark the width of the curls for spin curler wrapping. Make it only two inches if you are using rubber band curlers.

Start payments to gold star beneficiaries

The special dividend on National Service Life Insurance to beneficiaries of deceased veterans is scheduled for payment beginning in April but many persons who believe they are entitled to the dividend are due for disappointment.

The Illinois Veterans Commission said today that in those cases where a veteran allowed his insurance to lapse prior to his death, the special dividend will not necessarily be paid to the person designated as beneficiary.

In lapsed insurance cases the dividend is to be paid to the veteran's estate through his executor or administrator. If there is no executor or administrator the dividend is to be paid to persons entitled to the veteran's personal estate under the laws of descent.

Beneficiaries of veterans whose policy was in force at the time of death will be paid automatically. All others must make application.

Service officers of the Illinois Veterans Commission have been advised of this technicality and are ready to assist persons who come under this ruling in making application.

IVC offices are located at 164 N. Marion, Oak Park; 213 Liberty building, Wheaton; and 634 Davis, Evanston.

TAX FACTS

by George Mahin, Executive Secretary Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

The House of Representatives in Washington was scheduled to begin debate March 27 on the consolidated appropriation bill, a brand new device which wraps up proposed Federal spending in one package and gives Congress — and the general public — a clearer picture of how much the Federal goverment intends to spend and whether it is living within its income. Last year there were 11 different appropriation bills passed at different times, so that Congressmen were like a family of which each member went on a spending spree without knowing what the others were doing, and didn't know how far the family bank account was overdrawn until too late to do anything about it.

The House Appropriations Committee, in reporting the consolidated appropriation bill out favorably, cut the budget requests of President Truman by about one and one-half billions, but the total proposed spending is still three to four billions above anticipated Federal income. All citizens are urged by the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois to write or wire their Representatives and Senators in Washington to cut Federal expenditures further so that the Government will have to live within its income without increasing any taxes.

Alvin A. Burger, research director for the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, is 100% right when he says that "the plain truth is that Congress has all the power it needs to reduce Federal spending sufficiently to balance the 1951 Budget" because "It is Congress which appropriates funds for the Executive Branch to spend." No matter how much the Executive Branch may want to spend money for new ideas or new projects, or more money for present projects, it can't spend the money unless Congress votes it.

And it's not up to you to point out where the budget can be cut another 4 billions. Your Congressmen are elected by you and supposed to represent you. If you and the other people back home want your Federal government to live within its income, then it's the job of your Congressmen to see that it does.

Actually, the Collector of Internal Revenue would quickly descend upon any taxpayer who might contend that he could not, or would not, pay his Federal income tax because he had exceeded his own living budget. Irate taxpayers should do likewise with any of their own Congressmen who vote to permit the Federal government to spend one dime more than income. Know your friends—and your enemies.

And then vote on Tuesday, April 11, the date of the 1950 Illinois Primary when Democrats and Republicans will nominate candidates for the November election. Now is the time to check the performance, the pledges, attitudes, integrity, and ability of those individuals who want to represent you in the next session of Congress in Washington, the next session of the General Assembly in Springfield and in your local governments at home. By their votes, the successful candidates will determine whether we will have continued high taxes, deficit spending, growing debt, and mounting costs of government—federal, state and local. Check carefully the aspirants on your party's ticket. Be sure not to overlook any special propositions that may be on separate ballots. Such propositions may mean unwarranted increases in your local tax bills. But be sure, as a free American citizen, to go to the polls and vote. It is not only your greatest privilege, but also your most solemn duty.

Wieboldt 2-tier parking starts at Oak Park

Werner A. Wieboldt, Monday, April 10, will deal a severe blow to the constant curse of inadequate parking that has plagued the rapidly growing business community centering around Oak Park and River Forest.

Promptly at 9:30 a.m., Monday, the chairman of the board of Wieboldt Stores, Inc., will dig the first spadeful of dirt for the giant, double-decked parking structure that Wieboldt's will build next to their Oak Park-River Forest store at Harlem and Lake street.

With two decks, one on ground level, the other raised, the parking structure will provide 4.2 acres of parking for nearly 600 cars.

It will be located south and west of the store, with direct entrance from both levels to the new addition that has been under construction for some months.

An ad on USEFULNESS

Friend of ours was telling us about one of the most useful devices in the world.

"It works 24 hours a day for me," he said. "And never yet has let me down when I needed it most.

"Fact is, I use it to run all kinds of errands, carry messages to and from a steadily growing number of people, get help in emergencies, make friends and lots of other things. It saves me time, worry and money.

"Costs only a few nickels a day, too," he added.

"Must be a newfangled robot," we scoffed.

"No," he said. "You have one yourself—your telephone."

When you stop to think about it, few things are more useful than your telephone. Few things do so much for so little.

Easter HATS and FLOWERS

Conservation program in Barrington next week

He will show how a group of private individuals on their own initiative saved their beautiful valley from threatened destruction by soil erosion and stream pollution.

Tickets at 50 cents may be purchased at the high school or at the door. Any proceeds over expenses will be used toward work in horticulture at the high school.

REPUBLICANS HAVE MANY PRIMARY CONTESTS

Regular Republicans wage campaign for large vote to nominate own candidates

Republicans expect to poll a record primary vote next Tuesday. There are no contests for the Democrats.

While the insurgents of the regular republican organization provide much of the fan fare, the death of Congressman Ralph Church has stirred hopes of various men, more or less prominent in the Republican party, with aspirations to take over the Church nomination at the November election.

Nomination means practically election in this instance.

Mrs. Church, who hopes to be selected as the November candidate has thrown her hat in the ring, but opposes a write-in campaign by her supporters or by the Republican voters generally.

She wants her deceased husband nominated in the hope that she will be ultimately selected as the official nominee.

INDEPENDENT candidates who are asking their names be written-in, hope to make sufficient showing that will impress upon the minds of the congressional committee their claims for the honor.

The write-in candidates reside along the north shore and in Lake county. They include William M. McGovern of Evanston, W. J. Murphy of Waukegan.

All of the candidates of the regular Republican organization do not occupy first places on the ballot. The regular organization realizes that it must do a lot of personal work in order to overcome the advantage of first place that is occupied by some of their opponents.

LOCAL TOWNSHIP committeemen will be elected Tuesday. Their names are the last on both of the Democratic and Republican ballots. These committeemen are the spokesmen for their respective parties in the various townships.

Democratic committeemen of this area who seek re-election are: Jack Clark, Wheeling; I. E. Besander, Elk Grove; Roy LaLonde, Palatine; Vernon Rohde, Hanover; Ray Nebel, Schaumburg; J. Goldman, Barrington.

Republican committeemen: Wm. Busse, Elk Grove; Henry A. Busse, Wheeling; George Howes, Palatine; Albert Gieseke, Barrington; Henry Heine, Hanover; Louis Redeker, Schaumburg.

ONE VACANCY on each of the circuit and superior court judges will be filled at the primary. The Republican candidates are J. Ernest Wilkins and Edward B. Lucas. The Democratic ticket includes William J. Tuohy and A. L. Marovitz.

Northwest Cook county is growing in population and also in political importance. It has a ballot strength that is making the powers-that-be sit up and take notice.

It has three of their residents as candidates. They include the veteran county commissioner, William Busse, Noble J. Puffer, who seeks a return to the post of County superintendent of schools and Edw. J. Haseman, a candidate for democratic nomination for county commissioner. Puffer and Haseman have no opposition.

NEITHER DOES William Busse, although the names of two independents appear on the ballot in addition to the five who are now members of the board from the country district.

Mt. Prospect voters will vote for the first time on candidates for the Chicago Sanitary District. Here is another instance where the Democratic clerk placed first on the ballots the names of the Independents. The regular Republican organization is supporting William S. Norbburg, William F. Patterson and John G. Henneberger.

McGovern seeks Church post

William C. McGovern, professor of political science at Northwestern university, has launched an active write-in campaign for the vacancy created by the sudden death of Congressman Ralph E. Church of the 13th district.

Professor McGovern has a distinguished record. He served during World War II as a commander in the U. S. Navy and while in service acted as an advisor to the joint chiefs of staff on military-political matters.

He was awarded the legion of merit for meritorious service and served as consultant to the congressional committee on foreign affairs.

Prof. McGovern has always been a staunch Republican and his platform in the present campaign is one that the followers of former congressman Ralph Church find in keeping with that of the late Congressman who was always a staunch anti-new dealer.

McGovern's platform on which he is asking the support of the voters of the 13th district is as follows:

1. Rigid economy, reduction of taxes and the national debt.
2. Support of the principle of free private enterprise.
3. Support of the principle of check and balance so that no one group secures a strangle hold over the country, support the principles of the Taft-Hartley law.
4. Opposition to socialized medicine and other socialistic schemes.
5. A firm vigorous and positive foreign policy to protect the security of the United States.

Prof. McGovern has made a trip through the district and met as many people as possible. He is a vigorous personable gentleman who makes a favorable impression on all who meet him and is worthy of support of the Republican voters in next Tuesday's primary.

In order to vote for Prof. McGovern the voter should write in the name William C. McGovern on the ballot under the name of Ralph E. Church and a square and a cross placed before the name (X) William C. McGovern.

Jack Clark, Wheeling Demo. committeeman

Jack Clark, Wheeling township Democratic committeeman is a candidate for re-election. His name appears on the bottom of the Democratic ballot. It is his responsibility, and that of his precinct captains, to roll out a big vote Tuesday evening even if there is no opposition. "We intend to do it," says Clark.

One of the highlights of the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics will be the "States and Provisions" Luncheon on Saturday, April 15, in the Gold Room of the Congress Hotel. Representatives at the Convention will come from all parts of the United States and Canada and this will be stressed in the Table Decorations. Center pieces will represent Mathematized Models of a product or flower typical of each State.

Entertainment will be furnished by a barbershop quartette from the Men's Mathematics Club—Chicago and Metropolitan area. The quartette includes second bass, H. C. Torreyson of Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Ralph Church congress condidate but opposes Primary write-in campaign

"I deeply regret the necessity of making such an important decision at this time. I have never sought public office nor do I seek it now. Neither would it be within me to do so actively at this time. However, I have been so strongly urged, and by so many civic and community groups as well as individual citizens of the Thirteenth Congressional District, to seek my husband's seat in Congress in order to carry on his work there that, for clarification, I feel impelled to make the following statement.

"Although making no active attempt to seek this nomination, I would accept it proudly and would be greatly honored to be chosen to represent the many fine people of the Thirteenth District in the Congress of the United States. It would be a responsibility and privilege to continue the service of Ralph E. Church to this district and to intensify his fight for the American principles in which we have both so staunchly believed. If chosen in my own right, I would serve to my fullest capacity.

"However, because of my deep interest in a successful Republican Primary, I am asking that there be no write-in of my name on the primary ballot on April 11. Such an attempted write-in for any candidate might result in many spoiled ballots. I would not want to be even partially responsible for the failure of nomination of any Republican candidate because of spoiled ballots.

"Consequently, all our friends are being urged to vote for Ralph E. Church in the primary election on April 11 by placing a cross (X) before his name on the Republican ballot. This, even under present circumstances, will insure Mr. Church's nomination over any write-in candidate. The place would then be declared vacant, and subsequently the Congressional Committee for the Thirteenth Congressional District would select the candidate they believe most qualified and desirable to be the Republican nominee for election to Congress in November. I would urge that the people of this District express their preference as to a candidate directly to their Republican Township Committeemen in Cook County and to the Republican State Central Committeeman in Lake County, who comprise the Congressional Committee for the Thirteenth District."

MARGUERITE S. CHURCH.

Prominent realtor 'write-in' candidate

W. J. Murphy, well-known Lake County Realtor and president of the Waukegan-Lake County Real Estate Board, has announced his "write-in" candidacy for Representative in Congress, to replace the late Ralph E. Church.

Murphy has been endorsed by the Real Estate Board as "the man for the job." He is well qualified and a vigorous fighter for Republican principles. In endorsing Murphy for the Representativeship, the Board broke an old, established precedent, but stated that the step was taken in the interests of the welfare of the people, believing that Murphy will give the district the real representation needed.

Murphy has in motion a strong campaign for the write-in, and has based his appeal for votes on the fact that unless a write-in is nominated at the primary, the selection of a representative will be made by political forces, rather than by the voters.

Henry A. Busse Wheeling GOP committeeman

Henry A. Busse who is a candidate for re-election by the Republicans of Wheeling township as their committeeman is doing his utmost to roll out a big vote next Tuesday.

"The Republicans of the country towns have always believed in clean politics," says Henry, "and we must poll a big vote Tuesday to make certain that our November candidates are the class of men that we want them to be."

Poppy Day May 26

Final plans for Poppy Day in Illinois and Cook County were completed Saturday, April 1, at a meeting of the American Legion Poppy Commission in the Illinois Athletic Club.

The Poppy, memorial flower of the nation's war dead, will be sold in Cook County Friday, May 26. Proceeds from the sales are used for veterans rehabilitation work.

Reich record proves stand for 7th district

VERNON W. REICH

On April 11 voters in this District (7th) will be called upon to determine who shall represent them in the State Legislature next year. Outstanding among the candidates for that office on the Republican ticket is Vernon W. Reich, who seeks the nomination for the third time.

The Forest Park attorney is generally recognized as one of the more levelheaded legislators at the State Capitol and is noted for his conservativeness. Never one to be stampeded into voting for a bill because of high pressure tactics used by large groups who do not necessarily have the welfare of the state at heart, Mr. Reich carefully studies every bill, determines what effect it might have for the good of his district, and then forms his own conclusions.

Evidence of his intense interest in his, the largest district in the state, is brought out in the record of bills which he has sponsored. While other lawmakers in order to curry special favors, are sponsoring legislation to aid districts all over the state the local representative concerns himself with the need of his own district.

Following are some of the bills he introduced during the last session: Desplaines River dams appropriation, also water pollution; Voting machine bonds; county working cash fund; Flag Creek improvements; Forest Preserve District tax levy, the divorce court bills; insurance for high school pupils participating in athletics; city council meetings, and village trustee act.

Representative Reich is a graduate of Wisconsin and Valparaiso Universities. He was elected judge in Forest Park, and later Mayor, a position he has held for two terms. In 1943 he enlisted in the Navy and served overseas.

He also is president of the Valparaiso Alumni association.

Turkey in Franklin's Time

The turkey is not exactly the "bird of courage" Benjamin Franklin thought it was when he nominated that all-American fowl to be the official national bird. The turkey would never, except by mistake, attack a British redcoat in the barnyard, as Franklin said he would. And so, the powerful bald eagle became the national bird, but the juicy, succulent Thanksgiving turkey has come to be the national trade-mark of abundant living.

A STATESMAN To Represent Us In The Congress

William M. McGovern

Republican WRITE-IN Candidate from the 13th district

This Is Why William M. McGovern Should Go To Congress

The untimely death of Rep. Ralph Church leaves vacant his seat in Congress. The only way we voters can select his successor is to WRITE IN the name of the new candidate at the primary. It must be written below the name of the late Mr. Church. The name "Church" must not be crossed out. This will not spoil our ballots. If we don't WRITE IN, we, the voters, will have no choice.

We are fortunate to have a statesman, William M. McGovern, who can do an outstanding job of representing us. He is a home owner, family man, church member, and a staunch Republican.

He is a brilliant scholar, world traveler, author, lecturer, and professor of political science at Northwestern University. He knows personally, world and national leaders. A World War II naval commander, he was advisor to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He holds the Legion of Merit. He was consultant to the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. We have an opportunity to use this man's broad knowledge and insight. He advocates rigid economy, reduction of taxes and debt. He believes no group should have a stranglehold on the nation. He opposes socialistic schemes and world government. He opposes the Brannan Plan, excessively high farm price supports, socialized medicine, and federal control of education. He favors American private enterprise. He knows we cannot play Santa Claus to the world and wants a positive foreign policy.

McGovern has been endorsed by the Evanston Women's Republican Club, the Board of the New Trier Women's Republican Club, and individual endorsements are rolling in by the hour.

Here is a man with the intelligence, ability, and courage to represent us, be a leader in the Republican Party, and serve the nation.

At the PRIMARY April 11, WRITE IN . . .

Emmett McGrath seeks reelection as representative

Emmett McGrath of Brookfield who is now completing his tenth term or twenty years of service as a representative in the Illinois General Assembly from the Seventh Senatorial District seeks re-election on his record.

Let's look at his record. The voters in his district have recognized in him a leader. Each time that he was re-elected to office he won with an ever increasing majority. In the last election he received the highest vote in the legislative races throughout the State of Illinois.

Some of the bills he sponsored have to do with Accident and Insurance, Arbor and Bird Day, Des Plaines River Dam Appropriation, Divorce Courts, Domestic Relations, Elections, Inheritance Tax, Irish Freedom, Jurors' Mileage and School Sites.

McGrath has always voted favorably on bills dealing with labor, education, old age pensions, aid to dependent mothers and children, servicemen, increases in teachers' salaries and better housing for servicemen.

Because he felt that the motorist should not be called upon to assume a greater advance in the cost of gasoline at this time, he voted against the gas tax bill.

During his many years as a member of the legislature, McGrath has learned to advocate improvements only when there is a way open to provide funds for the undertaking. He has considered the voter's ability to pay the taxes for those things.

A patient keeps his doctor if he cures the pain, the motorist holds on to the car that runs all right and the voters should re-elect a good legislator.

Emmett McGrath has the endorsement of the Illinois Federation of Labor, many civic organizations and educators.

Mr. McGrath has served his district wisely and honestly. On his record he should be re-elected Tuesday, April 11, 1950.

Placing a cross opposite Mr. McGrath's name only, will give him three votes.

AN EDITORIAL

Only on rare and important occasions does this newspaper endorse candidates in a primary or general election.

This is one of those occasions.

We recommend to our Republican friends that, in the primary election on Tuesday, April 11, they cast their votes for Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries, candidate for re-election to the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Illinois.

A member of the state legislature since 1935, and now, by all odds, we think, its most valuable representative, Mrs. Van der Vries has accomplished much for the betterment of the people of Illinois, whether her party, in the shifting winds of political fortunes has been in majority or minority.

Her leadership in the field of sound social legislation has received national recognition. Most recently she has sponsored bills for the improved aid of mentally and physically ill.

A leading member, and at times chairman, of the committee on municipalities, she has been consistently on the side of more and better home rule for the cities and villages of the state.

She is chairman of the commission on intergovernmental cooperation and a member of the board of managers of the Council of State Governments. She is a member of the advisory committee of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations of the University of Illinois.

Illinois election law has a provision which may not be familiar to all our readers.

In voting for members of the House of Representatives of the state, the voter may cast his ballot for one or two candidates.

If he votes for two, each gets one and one-half.

If he votes for one, that candidate gets all three votes.

This process of cumulative voting, permitted for only the office of state representative, is usually called "plumping."

It is recommended in this case: that the Republican electors, in naming their choice for state representative from the sevent senatorial district, mark only the square before her name and thus cast three votes for Bernice Van der Vries.

Brenza treasurer candidate on regular ticket

John B. Brenza, Regular Republican candidate for county treasurer, is being supported by prominent business and civic leaders throughout Cook county with Orville Taylor, Chicago attorney, chairman of the Brenza committee.

Brenza was admitted to the Illinois Bar in 1910 and in 1914 organized the Metropolitan State bank.

The Regular Republican candidate has served as a member of the legislative committee of the Illinois Bankers association and has been active in civic and welfare organizations.

He assisted in the organization of the Holy Cross Hospital and the Marion Fathers Monastery at Hinsdale.

Brenza was one of the organizers of the Boy Scout Troop in the Metropolitan State area and is a member of the Yale Club of Chicago as well as a number of Lithuanian and Polish organizations.

In 1931 he was appointed by Governor Emerson to serve on the Illinois Relief commission and was active in the administration of relief during that period.

Increase navy quota

Commander S. W. Carr, USNR, Officer-in-Charge, U. S. Navy Recruiting and Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Chicago, Illinois, announced recently that the Navy Department has ordered a drastic increase in the enlistment quota for April 1950 in the Chicago area. For all intents and purposes the quota may be classed as being unlimited.

Non-high school graduates, as well as high school graduates, are being accepted for enlistment in an effort to fill the needs of the Navy. Previously applicants were forced to join waiting lists, but now all men who qualify are accepted for immediate enlistments. This policy is in keeping with the unlimited quota assigned during the middle of March.

Erickson record is one of many accomplishments

William N. Erickson — Civic leader, public office administrator, public benefactor and humanitarian, business executive, veteran of World Wars I and II —is Republican by birth, instinct, inclination and practice.

Currently serving in the public office as President of the Board of Commissioners of Cook County, Mr. Erickson is administrative head of the largest county government in the world. Concurrent with his first term as president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, Mr. Erickson is presently serving his fourth consecutive term as a member of this Board.

Since taking over the actual command of the Cook County government on December 1, 1946 —Mr. Erickson has forged to the front as a governmental administrator and a humanitarian of national reput. Leading in the numerous achievements which have to date been noted under Mr. Erickson's direction is the success of his efforts to modernize, enlarge and streamline the charitable institutions under his jurisdiction as President of the Board of Commissioners of Cook County. Foremost of these efforts include the work now under way at the Cook County Hospital, the largest charity hospital in the world, the Juvenile Detention Home and the Oak Forest Infirmary.

As a public planner Mr. Erickson in 1947 gained nationwide fame for his efforts to reduce traffic fatalities and help solve knotty traffic problems confronting governmental bodies of the size, scope and magnitude of Cook County, this work being accomplished through forming and serving as President of the Cook County Traffic Safety Commission, the first governmental leader in Illinois to tackle traffic safety as a public problem.

Under Mr. Erickson's administrative direction the Cook County government is in a solvent state financially, keeping expenditures within available revenues and maintaining for the Cook County government a balanced budget.

In addition to serving as President of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, Mr. Erickson also holds office as President of the Board of Commissioners of the Cook County Forest Preserve District and is ex-officio chairman of the Cook County Liquor Control Commission. The Forest Preserve District under Mr. Erickson's supervision comprises an area of approximately 39,000 acres and is one of the outstanding outdoor public recreational facilities on the North American continent.

Nordburg is suburban areas candidate, Apr. 11

Suburbanites on April 11 will be up against eight-to-one odds in their fight for continued representation on the Sanitary District of Chicago.

William S. Nordburg, Republican for re-election as Trustee of the Sanitary District, is the only candidate on either ticket, who has fought for, and represented, the suburban communities on Sanitary District actions. Because he has lived in Winnetka for 25 years, he is intimately acquainted with the problems of suburban living. All the other eight Republican candidates live in Chicago.

Nordburg's re-election is so important that the Chicago Daily News, in its key editorial of March 21, urged wholeheartedly his selection by the voters. "On his excellent record, he deserves renomination," the editorial stated, adding, "Mr. Nordburg is the only trustee who is a candidate for renomination . . . he has been a hard-working, effective and valuable minority member of the board."

More than 400 businessmen from both Chicago and suburbs are enthusiastically supporting the re-election of Norburg.

Candidate for Probate Court clerk outlines plans

Speaking before a large meeting of Republican workers gathered from several wards, on the Northwest side last Saturday night, John P. Holland, Republican Candidate for Clerk of the Probate Court, set upon the administrative problems of that important office by a four-way prescription for improvement.

1. Set up an "Advisory Board" of Lawyers and Businessmen to develop maximum services and efficiencies.

2. Introduce widely-used modern office methods to replace the antiquated systems now in use.

3. Reduce costs and make this office a desirable place to work by such time-saving methods.

4. Make the office, which ministers mainly unto widows, orphans and the bereaved, a hospitable, personalized, cooperative one.

"During my more than thirty years of Insurance executive service," stated Candidate Holland, "it has been my privilege to help many people when the 'grim reaper' took their bread winners away—and the importance of protecting particularly widows and orphans against chislers and crooks shall be my insistent concern always."

Candidate John P. Holland has the endorsement of the Cook County Bar Assn. and many civic organizations. A veteran of War I, he has a large following among veterans groups, as well as Republican organizations wherein he has been active a life time.

Bernice T. Van der Vries

Member House of Representatives
General Assembly of Illinois for the past 16 years

The Illinois Welfare Association at its Fifty-third Annual Conference held in Peoria presented a CITATION FOR PUBLIC SERVICE to Bernice T. Van der Vries.

In making the award Samuel A. Goldsmith, President of the Association, speaking of Mrs. Van der Vries said in part "We see her as a friend of progressive social legislation, a champion of the underdog, a clear and brilliant thinker, and a woman upon whom we depend to further many of the principles for which the Association stands. . . . We need more people like Mrs. Van der Vries in Illinois and in the nation. We need more people who can think and work as she does."

Report of the Better Government Association. "Bernice T. Van der Vries . . . ending eighth term. Able, active and independent. Continues to qualify herself as one of the outstanding members of the House. Excellent record."

Also endorsed by the Chicago Crime Commission and Republican organizations in the Seventh District.

John B. Brenza

REGULAR REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

is the kind of person we need in public office . . .

A RESPECTED BANKER FOR A BANKER'S JOB!

The County Treasurer is the custodian of between 200 and 300 million dollars of the public's money.

The man who fills the position of County Treasurer should have a thorough, practical knowledge of banking principles and procedures. He should be respected and a man of proven integrity.

Mr. Brenza has been President of the Metropolitan State Bank for 36 years. During his long tenure as a bank president he has been entrusted with many times the total of 300 million dollars.

During the moratorium in 1933 Mr. Brenza had in his bank in actual gold coin an amount equal to the deposit liabilities of the bank. He was in position to pay every depositor 100 cents on the dollar without any outside assistance.

Mr. Brenza received both Bachelor and Master degrees in law from Yale Law School and was admitted to the Illinois Bar in 1910. He has been active in civic and welfare organizations and is an important member of his business community.

JOHN B. BRENZA is endorsed by the Evanston Women's Republican Club, the New Trier Women's Republican Club, the Evanston Young Republican Club and recommended by the Better Government Association.

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS EDITORIAL—March 3, 1950

For John Brenza

THE Daily News strongly recommends that Republicans nominate John B. Brenza for county treasurer at the primary, April 11.

For 36 years Mr. Brenza has been president of the Metropolitan State Bank at 2201 W. Cermak rd. In his neighborhood, he enjoys the highest reputation as a good citizen. He likewise has the esteem of the whole banking fraternity in Cook County.

MR. BRENZA

When a bank moratorium was called in 1933, the Metropolitan bank had enough gold coin to have paid off its entire deposit liability.

The man who had exercised such extraordinary prudence to protect his customers can be well trusted with the custody of public funds.

Mr. Brenza is opposed by Elmer Michael Walsh, now sheriff of Cook County. There is a wide divergence of views in the Republican party as to what kind of a sheriff Mr. Walsh has been. He has been ferociously attacked in some quarters as incompetent and worse.

We do not share these extreme views. On the whole, we think Mr. Walsh has been average or better for Cook County in his performance as sheriff, though that is not very high praise. He strikes us a well-intentioned man, but he has frequently proved inept.

He was ill-advised in his selection of patronage advisers. He relied at the first of his term mainly on the late John Granata, who was murdered for reasons still unknown to the public.

Scrambling for aid in the present campaign, he has loaded up his payroll with a good many low-type politicians.

Advocating an "open" primary, he is nevertheless using his office, where the spirit of civil service surely ought to prevail, to sandbag support from party committeemen.

There is no reason why a sheriff, even the best of sheriffs, should be automatically entitled to another office with quite different qualifications.

There is nothing in Mr. Walsh's record to match the evidence of Mr. Brenza's fitness to administer the county treasury. We should prefer Mr. Brenza for that place even if Mr. Walsh as sheriff had given no ground for criticism.

Mr. Brenza's career has been spent in a neighborhood where the Republican party has not been very strong. His nomination should bring new strength to the Republican ticket in November.

Busse sponsors good roads for Cook county

WILLIAM BUSSE

Aspiring to renomination to his post as a member of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, William Busse—familiar to virtually every voter in this section of Illinois — has pointed to his record over the years as evidence of his right to the voters' support.

The veteran Republican has compiled a distinguished record during long service in public office.

Known as a champion of good roads and highways throughout his repeated terms as an elected official, Busse has won wide support throughout the country towns area which he represents on the board.

Seeking office on the G. O. P. slate from the country towns district are four other candidates. They are William N. Erickson, candidate for renomination as member and also a candidate for president of the board and George A. Miller, George F. Nixon and John Mackler.

Mr. Busse resides in Mount Prospect, where he is president of the Mount Prospect State bank. He is the father of seven children, six of whom make their home in Mount Prospect.

Vote for Regular Republican Candidates

Supported by REPUBLICAN CITIZENS COMMITTEE, Edmund F. Mansure, Chairman
AND THE MAJORITY OF THE MANAGING COMMITTEE, John Leonard East

To Republicans of of Northwest Towns

Mount Prospect, Illinois
April 7, 1950

Dear Voter:

The Primary Election will be held on April 11, 1950. At this time the Republican Party will choose the candidates who will oppose the Democratic slate in November.

It is my mature judgment that the best interests of the citizens of Cook County and the State of Illinois will be best served by voting for the Regular Republican Candidates supported by Republican Citizens Committee, Edmund F. Mansure, Chairman, and the majority of the Cook County Central Committee, John Leonard East, Chairman.

Due to the large number of contested positions on the ballot, I believe that a list is needed for those desiring to support our choices. Therefore, attached hereto is a list of the candidates we endorse. They will appear on the ballot under the offices for which they are candidates in the order in which they are herein listed.

So that the Republican Party may have the best qualified candidates on the ticket in the fall, I urge that you take this list with you to the polls and mark for each and every candidate thereon.

There will be a separate judicial ballot. The nature of the judicial contest is final and not a primary. In voting for our well qualified candidates, namely, J. Ernest Wilkins for Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County and Edward B. Lucius for Judge of the Superior Court of Cook County, you will be casting a vote for two good judges.

Sincerely yours,

William Busse

State tests show standover crop of legume hay best

If you're looking for a money-making way of farming, start a rotation that includes at least one year of standover legume hay, states Farm Adviser Hughes.

In making the change-over, you'll propably find that liming your land according to soil test will pay huge dividends in larger crops, he adds.

The adviser bases these recommendations on long-time results from soils and crops experiments at the Mt. Morris soils experiment field in Ogle County.

One year of standover legumes gave much better results than two catch crops because it added much more nitrogen and organic matter to the soil.

In the livestock system of farming, a 4-year rotation of corn-oats-wheat-legume hay was used up to 1943. The best treatment was manure and lime. The 1945-48 average crop yields were 94 bushels of corn, 86 bushels of oats, 38 bushels of wheat, and 2½ tons of clover hay to the acre.

THESE YIELDS were worth $75 an acre at 1945-48 prices after paying all costs, including labor, seed, harvesting, and marketing. That $75 was left for taxes and your reward for management.

In contrast, in the grain system a 4-year rotation of corn-corn-oats-wheat was used up to to 1948, with legume catch crops in the oats and wheat.

The best treatment was residues, lime, and phosphate. The 1945-48 average crop yields were only 73 bushels of corn the first year, 60 bushels of second-year corn, 60 bushels of oats, and 25 bushels of wheat

These crops were valued at $59 an acre after paying all costs.

In contrast, Ogle county yields for 1944-47 were 57 bushels of corn an acre, 49 bushels of oats, 26 bushels of wheat, and 1½ tons of hay. Except for wheat, these are considerably below even the low yields of the grain system at Mt. Morris field.

IN THE LIVESTOCK system, manure at $24 an acre was the most valuable soil-building material. Lime added another $7 an acre in extra crops.

In the grain system, lime was worth a healthy $28.50 an acre in larger crops, Hughes reports. The total value of residues, lime, and phosphate was $37.

Hughes points out the value of manure and lime in this way: If you figured the manured-limed plot as equal to a 100-acre farm, it would take 154 acres of untreated land to produce the same net profits.

In the grain system, it would take 223 acres of untreated land to give you the same net returns, after paying all costs, as 100 acres of land treated with residues, lime, and phosphate.

There are four crop rotations being studied at Mt. Morris field. The new grain and livestock rotations are in their third crop season this year. The livestock rotation is corn-corn-oats-legume hay. The grain system rotation is corn-oats with a legume catch crop-wheat-legume hay.

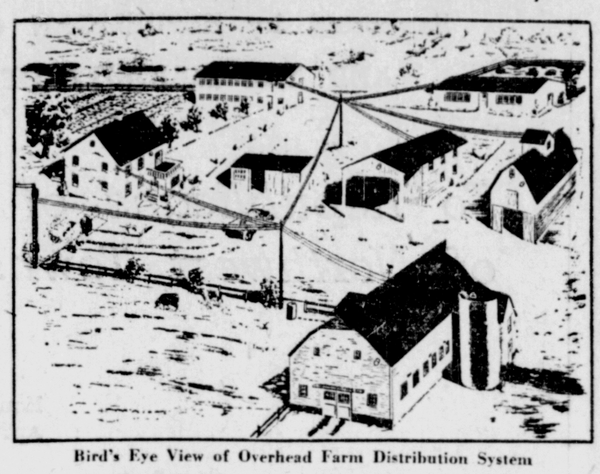
In addition there is a 7-year rotation of corn-barley-clover and alfalfa hay-4 years of alfalfa alone. The fourth rotation is corn-oats-followed by either timothy, soybeans, clover, or alfalfa.

Mt. Morris is one of 26 soils experiment fields scattered over the state and operated by the College of Agriculture. D. A. Vinson handles the Mt. Morris field, under supervision of F. C. Bauer and A. L. Lang.

Adequate Wiring; What's That?

* * * * * * * *

It's the Key to Maximum Use of Electricity



Bird's Eye View of Overhead Farm Distribution System

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Planned wiring is the key to better farming. It is fundamental, too, to attaining the objectives of more convenient living conditions in the farm home.

The picture above gives you a bird's eye view of one type of farm distribution system in which electricity can be put to work at top efficiency. It presents a typical, pole-metering installation, with meter and transformer located on the same pole. Feeder lines radiate to other structures from a distribution pole. And individual flood lights are located at strategic corners of each building. Yard lights should be installed so they can be controlled conveniently from various locations on the farmstead. This can be done with multiple-control switches or by means of low voltage relay control systems. An electrically heated stock drinking cup is shown near the dairy barn. The electric pump, located in a separate room of the house basement, is supplied by a separate feeder, thus keeping it in "fire fighting trim" in case flames should destroy buildings connected to other feeders.

There are, of course, other types of distribution systems which are just as good as that illustrated. For example, wires may be placed underground as well as overhead. And meters can be located on the outside or inside of suitable buildings. In all cases, however, the service equipment and the meter should be placed at a point as near as is practical to the electric load center of the farmstead.

The basic requirements of a well planned wiring system are that it shall be safe, adequate, easily expanded and economical. The first requirement will be satisfied if the installation is made in compliance with the electrical code. Others, however, call for careful planning—a look into the future to determine, insofar as possible, what use will be made of electricity in the years ahead. If this is done, your wiring system can be designed to meet electrical power and lighting needs for years to come. And it can be planned so that it can be expanded—if need be—at low cost. For remember, it is more economical to install an adequate wiring system the first time, than to have to expand a skimpy system later. When you plan, plan for wires which are large enough to provide for enough electricity for all foreseeable power and electrical needs—the smaller the wire, the smaller the amount of current it can "carry." Feeder lines should be designed to hold voltage drops to a minimum. Be sure, too, that your service entrance is of ample size.

Other adequate wiring and lighting requirements include: 1—enough branch circuits, each of the proper size, in all buildings; 2—individual branch circuits for major household appliances; 3—special purpose outlets for motor driven equipment of ½ horsepower or over served by a 230-volt circuit; 4—enough duplex convenience outlets, properly located for small appliances, portable lamps, etc.; 5—separate grounding of all permanently installed motors and other equipment; 6—plenty of permanently installed switch-controlled lights in buildings and on the farmstead; 7—enough switches to control lighting of stairs, silos, etc., as well as other switches located on the latch side of each frequently used doorway.

Jr. vegetable growers start annual project

Teen-age tillers of the soil in Cook County will compete this year for more than 200 agricultural scholarships and awards in the production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers' association.

Farm Adviser Hughes says that every boy and girl in Cook county from 12 through 21 years of age is eligible to compete for the $6,000 in awards which A&P food stores provide for this project each year. They will be judged on the basis of a superor job in growing and marketing vegetables.

In announcing the contest, E. I. Pilchard, state 4-H club leader, says that it is essentially an educational program which offers further opportunity to 4-H Club members enrolled in the garden project. Illinois 4-H members won four state championships in the 1949 contest.

"THIS PROJECT plays a vital part in spreading knowledge of scientific agricultural developments," he said, "and, with a record 150,000,000 people eating 15 percent more than in prewar years, its importance cannot be over-emphasized."

Those junior growers interested in joining the NJVGA will find it easy to do so. All you have to do is contact your local 4-H Club leader or your county farm adviser. Instructors in vocational agriculture, extension workers of the USDA, and youth Leaders of National Grange chapters are also cooperating with the association in enrolling members.

In addition to the production-marketing contest, the 1950 program will again include the annual demonstration contest, in which individual or teams compete in demonstrating new methods of planting, cultivating, preparing or marketing vegetables. Journeys to the annual NJVGA convention for winners of state contests, and cash awards to top performers in the national finals, are offered by the W. Atlee Burpee Seed company for this event.

ILLINOIS STATE winners in the 1949 production-marketing contest were: William R. Hobson, Philip Hobson and Roy E. Hobson, all of Greenfield, and Donald W. Linneman of Arlington Heights.

Sugar beet signups for Michigan and Ohio already have exceeded the 1949 total, with three months of contracting yet to go, reports the Farmers & Manufacturers Beet Sugar Association. As of March 18, there were 3,646 more acres pledged than in all of last year. The 1950 total now stands at 139,863 acres, the Association states.

LAW on the FARM

Check dams, terraces, and grass waterways

The Agricultural Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Districts and Production and Marketing Administration have all made farmers conscious of certain needs in combating soil erosion. Among the structures and practices are check dams, terraces and grass waterways. Since all of these affect natural drainage, they must be built so that they will conform to existing drainage rules. In some cases this strips them of their usefulness.

Examine for a moment the theory, followed in Illinois, that surface water flowing in a natural depression must not be diverted so that it will enter the lower land at any point other than where the depression naturally enters the lower land. This is one of the cardinal principles of the civil law rule of natural drainage. Hand in hand with this rule goes another: that water cannot be brought through even a slight divide and made to flow on land which could not have received it in a state of nature.

IN ONE ILLINOIS county there is more than a section of contiguous farmland, held by about a dozen owners, that is situated on top of and all around a prominence locally known as "the Dome." Most of these owners are willing to forget fence lines, work out mutual agreements, have surveys made and put in effective terraces. But even if they can work out agreement among themselves, owners between their land and an adequate outlet for their waterways can complain that they are receiving surface waters which have been diverted from natural channels, that this violates the natural drainage rules of Illinois and that the additional water must be restored to its former natural channels. In view of past court decisions, the complainants would win the day and the system of terraces and waterways would become either useless or very much limited in value.

There is another drainage rule which holds that surface waters cannot be dammed so that they back up on the higher land, but which at the same time holds that an upper owner is legally powerless, even though his whole farm is flooded, if the water backs up simply because the lower owner has permitted his channel to clog and fill and grow up in willows. To the average man there appears to be something inconsistent in these conclusions. The conservation-minded farmer must place his check dam with extreme caution—the owner of the clogged channel can stand by with impunity while his neighbor's corn crop disappears beneath a spring freshet.

HOWEVER, the individual farmer may be able to make extensive improvements in his erosion control program, because he can still operate within his legal rights so long as:

1. A check dam does not cause water to back up on the property above or divert its point of entry on the property below.
2. A terrace does not bring in water from another watershed.
3. A grass waterway enters the lower land at the same place it did as an open ditch.

Follow schedule for best results for baby pigs

Now that we are right in the middle of spring farrowing, every swine grower's interest is all on saving and raising as many pigs as he can.

Farm Adviser Hughes says that the success of the hog enterprise on your farm will be determined largely by how many pigs you save at farrowing and how well they do in the next eight weeks.

From Harry G. Russell, livestock extension specialist at the Illinois College of Agriculture, comes a schedule of some of the more important details which you should be checking:

Keep the sow's ration bulky at farrowing time, but don't skimp on the protein. Use alfalfa meal and oats to add bulk. You can feed whole oats at this time. Measure the sow's feed after farrowing by the number and size of her pigs and her milking ability. Get her on a full feed within two weeks if possible.

GUARD AGAINST anemia in the pigs. You can start the first week by swabbing on the sow's udder daily a solution of one pound of ferrous sulfate or copperas in three pints of water. This will supply iron to the pigs and may prevent loss of some of the biggest ones. Or you can get the same results by putting fresh sod in the pens.

Mark the litters during the first week after farrowing. At least mark the gilts in the good litters so that you can later select your next group of replacement gilts.

Watch for damage to pigs and to the sow's udder caused by needle teeth. Leave the pigs' teeth alone unless they cause trouble. Clip them right away if they do, using side cutter pliers. Do a clean job and be careful not to injure the pigs' jaws.

Set up a creep feeder for the pigs by the time they are two weeks old. Shelled or cracked corn is all right for feed, but hulled or rolled oats are even better to get pigs started eating solid foods. Castrate the male pigs when they are four weeks old.

VACCINATE for cholera with serum and virus when the pigs are six weeks old. If you use the single treatment, wait until at least two weeks after weaning.

Wean pigs at eight weeks if you intend to breed the sows for fall litters. Take the sows away from the pigs and leave them in the area that they are used to.

Always follow a sanitation program. Move the sows and litters to clean pasture as soon as you can. If you don't have early pasture, plan some for next year. Rye fields were used all winter at the University swine farm in Urbana, even with the heavy rains of January and February this year.

Words often misused

Do not say, "I planted it in back of the house." "In back of" is not considered good usage by most authorities. It is better to say, "I planted it 'behind' the house."

Do not say, "Did you ever see the Grand Canyon?" Say, "Have you ever 'seen' the Grand Canyon?"

Say, "She is a girl 'whom' I know you can trust," and, "She is a girl 'who' I know can be trusted."

Do not say, "I do not know if he understands the question." Say, "I do not know 'whether' he understands."

Do not say, "He said to wait for a few minutes." Say, "He said 'that I (or, 'you') should' wait for a few minutes."

Say, "I am angry 'with' my brothers," and, "I am angry 'at' the outrage"; not, "I am angry 'at' my brothers"; or, "I am angry 'with' the outrage."

Words often mispronounced

Beethoven (famed composer). Pronounce ba-to-ven, a as in bay, o as in toe, accent first syllable, and not bee-to-ven.

Frequent (verb and adjective). Accent the verb on the second syllable, the adjective on the first syllable.

Precedence. Pronounce pre-see-dens, with accent on second syllable not the first.

Drought. Prounce as though spelled drout.

Conspiracy. Pronounce the i as in it, not as in spire.

Abyss. Pronounce a-bis, a as in ask unstressed, i as in kiss, accent second syllable.

Words often misspelled

Twelfth; not twelvth. Benefited and benefiting; only one t. Cello though pronounced chell-o. Chase (to hunt); chaise (a carriage). Financier, not financeer. Ferment (to be agitated); foment (to encourage).

Word study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

REGIMEN; a governing; a system; in medicine, a systematic course of diet. (Pronounce reji-men, both e's as in bet, i as in it, accent first syllable). "Preserving the health by too strict a regimen is a wearisome malady."La Rochefoucauld.

INTUITION; quick perception of truth without conscious reasoning; insight. "Her intuition led her to the conclusion that she must go at once."

GAUCHE; awkward. (Pronounce gosh, o as in no). "His manner of handling the situation was guache."

INVEIGLE; to lead on or astray as if blind; to entice. Pronounce the ei as in received). "Do not be inveigled by these false promises."

CONCERTED; mutually contrived or agreed upon. "It will require concerted action to accomplish this result."

NONENTITY; a person or thing of little or no account. "He is nonentity so far as disturbing our purposes is concerned."

Libertyville moves over to dial phones

Close to 5,000 telephones in the Libertyville area are now operated on a dial instead of a manual system. The change was made with ceremonies at the new million and a half dollar 'phone exchange on East Church st.

Village officials of Libertyville and Mundelein, hundreds of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. officials from Chicago and North Shore cities and towns, and a number of Libertyville and Mundelein residents were guests at the formal program. They inspected the new building and watched the cutting of small wires which held the signals in position.

Political independence, our "Declaration of Independence," was proclaimed to a young and vigorous nation on July 4, 1776, when citizens were summoned to Independence Hall plaza in Philadelphia by the stentorian tones of the historic Liberty Bell. The actual tone of the Liberty Bell will again be heard throughout the nation during the U. S. Savings Bonds "Independence Drive" May 15-July 4. This time it will peal forth a message of financial independence for the individual, a reminder to every citizen of the importance of savings and Savings Bonds. They make you better equipped to face the future, secure in the reality that yours will be a better, more comfortable future.
